Working Group on Children and Armed Conflict

Conclusions on parties to the situation of armed conflict in Burundi

1. At its 11th meeting, on 6 December 2007, the Working Group examined the report of the Secretary-General on children and armed conflict in Burundi (S/2007/686), introduced by the Special Representative of the Secretary-General. A representative of Burundi participated in the subsequent discussion.
2. The main elements of the exchange of views among the members of the Working Group are summarized below.
3. The members of the Working Group welcomed the submission of the report of the Secretary-General in accordance with Security Council resolution 1612 (2005), and the analysis and recommendations contained therein met with a generally favourable response.
4. Grave concern was expressed regarding the delays in the implementation of the Comprehensive Ceasefire Agreement, the suspension of participation of Palipehutu-Forces nationales de libération (FNL) in the Joint Verification and Monitoring Mechanism, the failure to formally release children associated with Palipehutu-FNL and reports of further child recruitment and use by Palipehutu-FNL, despite the message contained in the conclusions adopted by the Working Group (see S/2007/92).
5. Grave concern was also expressed about the alarming increase in cases of rape and other grave sexual violence committed against children, especially girls, and the prevailing impunity concerning those cases, despite some positive steps taken by the Government of Burundi to address the situation and prosecute perpetrators.
6. The members of the Working Group welcomed the steps taken by the Government of Burundi, with the support of the United Nations Integrated Office in Burundi (BINUB), United Nations agencies, funds and programmes and donors, to review legislation, improve prevention and awareness-raising, develop training in the field of child welfare and protection and address abuses and children's rights violations, in particular rape and other forms of sexual violence, including any committed by security forces.
7. The members also welcomed the release of children whose detention in the demobilization camp at Randa was mentioned in the previous report of the Secretary-General (S/2006/851), in line with the conclusions of the Working Group, and the subsequent release, in March 2007, of most of the children held in illegal detention for suspected association with Palipehutu-FNL, while insisting that mechanisms should allow the United Nations to provide support for the reintegration of released children into their families and their communities.

8. The participation of the Minister for National Solidarity, Human Rights and Gender of Burundi in the conference entitled “Free children from war”, held in Paris on 5 and 6 February 2007, and commitments made to the Special Representative of the Secretary-General during her visit to Burundi in March 2007, were also welcomed.

9. Members of the Working Group insisted on the need for further support by the international community to assist disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programmes for children and other programmes designed to improve child protection and awareness-raising on the rights of the child in Burundi.

10. The representative of Burundi expressed his appreciation to the Secretary-General for his report and the recommendations contained therein, and indicated that the protection of children, including through the finalization of a programme of transcription into national legislation of all international instruments to which Burundi is a party, would be one of the priorities of the newly formed Government. The overall situation of human rights and of children in Burundi had improved significantly, with more than 3,500 children having been demobilized and reintegrated since 2004. Concerning cases of violations and abuses committed against children, as mentioned in the report, the Government of Burundi expressed its condemnation and renewed its commitment to address all abuses and violations committed against children. The representative of Burundi also deplored the lack of participation of Palipehutu-FNL in the Joint Verification and Monitoring Mechanism and its consequences for the situation of children, and called upon the international community to increase pressure on its leadership in order to remedy the situation.

11. Further to the meeting and subject to and consistent with applicable international law and relevant Security Council resolutions, including resolution 1612 (2005), the Working Group agreed to the following.

Recommendations to the Security Council

12. The Working Group agreed to recommend that the President of the Security Council address letters:

To the Government of Burundi

(a) Welcoming:

(i) The cooperation shown by the Government of Burundi with the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict during her visit to Burundi from 13 to 17 March 2007;

(ii) The commitment of the Government of Burundi to addressing the issue of children and armed conflict, including through the ratification of relevant international instruments;

(iii) The participation of the Minister for National Solidarity, Human Rights and Gender of Burundi in the Paris conference entitled “Free children from war” and the support expressed on that occasion by the Government for the Paris Principles and Commitments to protect children from unlawful recruitment or use by armed forces or armed groups;

(iv) The steps taken, in line with the conclusions of the Working Group, to release the children whose detention in the demobilization camp of Randa was mentioned in the previous report of the Secretary-General (S/2006/851) and to reintegrate them into their respective communities with the support of the United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF), as well as the subsequent release of children in illegal detention for suspected association with Palipehutu-FNL, while stressing that in the future, such release processes should be carried out in a way that allows the United Nations to provide support for the reintegration of those children into their communities;

(v) The efforts undertaken by the Government of Burundi, with the assistance of UNICEF and of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights in Burundi and other relevant United Nations agencies, to revise the Criminal Code and Criminal Procedure Code with a view to including greater protection for the rights of children;

(b) Expressing deep concern about:

(i) The alarming increase in cases of rape and other grave sexual violence committed against children, especially girls, in the situation of armed conflict in Burundi and the limited number of cases in which perpetrators are brought to justice, thereby contributing to the prevailing impunity for those cases;

(ii) The fact that, despite the willingness shown by the Government of Burundi to combat violations and abuses perpetrated by national security forces against children and the steps taken to prosecute police officers and soldiers accused of such abuses, security personnel continue to account for a significant number of violations;

(c) Urging it, with the support of the United Nations:

(i) To make every effort to adopt, as a matter of priority, the draft revised Penal Code and the draft amendments to the revised Criminal Procedure Code raising the age of criminal liability, prohibiting the enlistment of children in armed forces, prescribing heavier sentences for crimes perpetrated against children and introducing alternative measures to imprisonment, as well as lighter sentences for children convicted of an offence or a crime, and to ensure that its national legislation is in accordance with its obligations under international law;

(ii) To consider with special attention the protection of children in transitional justice mechanisms and in all provisions of security sector reform, as provided for in the 2000 Arusha Peace and Reconciliation Agreement, the 2003 Comprehensive Ceasefire Agreement and the 2006 Comprehensive Ceasefire Agreement, as well as Security Council resolution 1606 (2005);

(iii) To make every effort to pursue and bring to justice anyone responsible for violations or abuses against children, including killings and maimings, rape and other forms of sexual violence, and provide an adequate response, making every effort to protect the victims, witnesses and individuals reporting crimes perpetrated against children, in order to put an end to impunity in Burundi;

- (iv) To support the development of an integrated national child protection system;
- (v) To continue to develop activities in the field of training and capacity-building for security forces and legal services personnel on child protection and relevant international human rights instruments and humanitarian law on children affected by armed conflict;
- (vi) To make every effort to ensure that the children who have been transferred to the Randa and Buramata demobilization sites since November 2007 are demobilized without delay and reintegrated into their families and communities;

To the Secretary-General

(d) Welcoming the visit of his Special Representative for Children and Armed Conflict to Burundi in March 2007;

(e) Commending the efforts undertaken by the United Nations Integrated Office in Burundi and UNICEF, in coordination with the Government of Burundi, to contribute actively to the protection of children and their efforts to engage with Palipehutu-FNL, as well as the alleged dissidents of Palipehutu-FNL, in order to put an end to child recruitment and to facilitate the release of affected children;

(f) Requesting him to continue, through BINUB, and in conjunction with the South African facilitation and the Regional Peace Initiative, to urge Palipehutu-FNL to immediately release children associated with it, in line with Security Council resolutions 1612 (2005) and 1791 (2007), and to agree on a time-bound action plan to end the recruitment and use of children, and also requesting him to ensure that child protection, including the specific needs of girls, is taken into account in disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programmes in Burundi, and to ensure the sustainable reintegration of children into their families and communities;

(g) Requesting him to urge the United Nations system to support child protection in the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration process in Burundi, and inviting him to call upon the international community to continue to allocate adequate funding for capacity-building in Burundi for disarmament, demobilization and long-term reintegration programmes for children.

Direct action by the Working Group

13. The Working Group agreed to address a message to the Palipehutu-FNL through a public statement by its Chairman on behalf of the Working Group:

(a) Strongly condemning the continuous recruitment and use of children, as well as all other violations and abuses committed against children, by Palipehutu-FNL;

(b) Stressing, in view of the disturbing trend of the recruitment of children that has been noted since the signing of the Comprehensive Ceasefire Agreement, that the leadership of Palipehutu-FNL should be aware that the presence of children in the ranks of Palipehutu-FNL resulting from recruitment in violation of international law not only does not constitute an asset in the negotiations over the demobilization process, but is detrimental to Palipehutu-FNL in this context, and recalling that recruitment of underage children by armed groups is recognized as a war crime under international law;

(c) Strongly urging Palipehutu-FNL to put an immediate end to any new recruitment, release unconditionally all children within its ranks in any capacity in order for them to be reintegrated into their families and communities and to engage at the earliest opportunity with UNICEF for the development of an action plan in line with Security Council resolution 1612 (2005), taking into account the Paris Principles: Principles and Guidelines on Children Associated with Armed Forces or Armed Groups, with a view to putting an end to all violations and abuses perpetrated against children and ensuring transparent procedures for the release and sustainable reintegration of all children.

14. The Working Group also agreed to address letters from the Chairman:

To the Chairman of the Peacebuilding Commission

(a) Sharing the information contained in the report of the Secretary-General and the conclusions of the Working Group, and stressing the need to assist the Government of Burundi in developing and implementing strategies:

(i) To address disarmament, demobilization and long-term reintegration of children associated with armed groups into their communities, paying particular attention to the specific needs of girls;

(ii) To raise awareness of and support the Government's action to fight violations and abuses against children in armed conflict, including sexual and other gender-based violence committed against children, ensure the protection and access to justice of victims of such violence and fight impunity;

(iii) To continue programmes of training for police and other security forces in order to prevent violations and abuses committed against children by Burundian security forces and to deal with those who commit such abuses;

(iv) To support the valuable work conducted by and strengthen the capacities of administration offices in charge of human rights, judicial authorities and the office of the military prosecutor, as well as local civil society organizations, in protection of the rights of the child;

To the World Bank and donors

(b) Recalling its previous call for support for strengthened and accelerated implementation of sustainable disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programmes in Burundi, in close cooperation with the Government of Burundi, together with civil society organizations and local communities, paying particular attention in this process to girls exploited by armed forces and groups, and inviting them to also support activities in the field of advocacy and training on child rights protection, including through an integrated national child protection system.
