Working Group on Children and Armed Conflict

Conclusions on parties in the armed conflict in the Sudan

1. At its 10th meeting, on 18 September 2007, the Working Group examined the report of the Secretary-General on children and armed conflict in the Sudan (S/2007/520), introduced by the Special Representative of the Secretary-General. A representative of the Sudan participated in the subsequent discussion.

2. The main elements of the exchange of views among the members of the Working Group are summarized below.

3. The members of the Working Group welcomed the submission of the report of the Secretary-General in accordance with Security Council resolution 1612 (2005). Some members expressed full support for the Secretary-General’s analysis and recommendations, while others expressed disagreement with certain recommendations. Some members also expressed the wish for more specific information on the context and the perpetrators of crimes related in the report.

4. Grave concern was expressed about the continued and widespread violations and abuses committed against children in the situation of armed conflict in the Sudan, in particular in Darfur, including killing, maiming and sexual violence committed against children, as well as attacks targeting civilian objects, including schools, and, in that context, the importance of respect for international humanitarian law and other applicable international standards and norms by all parties to the conflict and the need to allow full, unimpeded and secure humanitarian access to children were stressed.

5. Grave concern was also expressed regarding reports of further child recruitment and use by armed groups in violation of applicable international law, commanders of the Sudan People’s Liberation Army and the Sudanese armed forces, despite the clear message contained in the conclusions adopted by the Working Group (see S/2006/971).

6. Members of the Working Group welcomed steps taken by the Government of National Unity to review legislation in the field of child welfare and protection and to address violations at the national, regional and local levels.

7. Members of the Working Group welcomed the commitments made to the Special Representative of the Secretary-General during her visit to the Sudan in January 2007 and the participation at the ministerial level of the Government of National Unity in the Conference entitled “Free children from war”, held in Paris on 5 and 6 February 2007, as positive signs of the Government’s commitment to the protection of children under its jurisdiction in the context of armed conflict.

8. The importance of the full and effective implementation of Security Council resolution 1769 (2007), the Comprehensive Peace Agreement, the Darfur Peace Agreement and subsequent commitments in the framework of the Sirte peace process launched in Sirte, Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, as well as the previous conclusions adopted by the Working Group in order to better protect children in armed conflict from abuse and violations of their rights, end impunity, increase accountability for acts of violence against children committed by members of armed forces and armed groups and accelerate the implementation of disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programmes for children, were underlined.

9. Members of the Working Group stressed that, in the course of the implementation of resolution 1769 (2007), the Darfur Peace Agreement and subsequent commitments in the framework of the Sirte peace process, the protection of children, with special attention to the girl child, should remain a priority.

10. In subsequent discussions, concerns were raised by members of the Working Group in connection with the case in which a non-governmental organization, in the context of an operation called “Children Rescue”, was involved in the attempted abduction of children in neighbouring Chad, and it was stressed that a clear message from the Working Group should be delivered about cases of abduction.

11. The representative of the Sudan:

(a) Expressed regret that the report of the Secretary-General did not sufficiently reflect important positive developments, such as the adoption of resolution 1769 (2007) and the convening of peace negotiations on Darfur, as well as several measures and policies adopted recently by the Government of National Unity with a view to improving the protection of children, training military personnel and reintegrating children previously associated with armed forces or armed groups into their families;

(b) Expressed deep regret that the report of the Secretary-General was not, in his opinion, based on accurate, objective and reliable information;

(c) Reaffirmed the pledge of the Government of National Unity to uphold and apply all its international and regional commitments and obligations concerning the rights of the child;

(d) Reiterated the willingness of the Government of National Unity to cooperate with the Working Group, the United Nations and its specialized agencies, funds and programmes in order to improve child protection and demobilize and reintegrate children released from armed forces and groups, and insisted on the urgent need for the international community to support national efforts in this field;

(e) Expressed regret that he was not in a position to discuss the conclusions before their adoption by the Working Group.

12. Further to the meeting and subject to and consistent with applicable international law and relevant Security Council resolutions, including resolution 1612 (2005), the Working Group agreed to the following.
