Final report of the Panel of Experts established pursuant to Security Council resolution 2374 (2017) on Mali and renewed pursuant to resolution 2484 (2019)

Summary

Following the cancellation by the Government of Mali of the meeting of the Agreement Monitoring Committee (Comité de suivi de l'accord) in Kidal in September 2019, the holding of legislative elections in March and April 2020 offered the prospect of giving new impetus to the institutional reform agenda of the Agreement. However, the inability of the Government to turn the newly created regions of Taoudenni and Ménaka, as well as the cercles of Almoustrat and Achibogho in the north, into electoral constituencies casts doubts about its commitment to improve representation of the populations of the north within national institutions.

Despite pending institutional reforms, some progress was achieved on accelerated disarmament, demobilization and reintegration and subsequent integration into national security and defence forces, including through reconstituted army units meant to deploy in the north. However, the process has been fraught with difficulties owing to questionable decision-making, particularly by the former Chief of Staff of the Malian army, Brigadier General Keba Sangaré, which generated four months of delays and eroded confidence between parties. Newly integrated soldiers were first left unassigned, some were then wrongly assigned to southern regions, and without being given means of transport and sustenance held responsible for not joining their units when finally called to duty. The army's repeated attempts to not respect the agreed quota of one third of each signatory party in both the composition and command of reconstituted units further delayed deployments thereafter.

Discord between signatory parties aside, the national and regional security situation has not been conducive to the implementation of the Agreement on Peace and Reconciliation in Mali, which has passed its fifth year of implementation. The Panel of Experts on Mali noted a growing trend of violence against civilians committed by government forces during counter-insurgency operations not only in Mali, but also in Burkina Faso and the Niger, impacting particularly on northern Malian refugee communities. Atrocities committed by ethnic-based militias in central Mali continue unabated, notably the Malian Dogon militia, Dan Nan Ambassagou, which links up with similar groups in Burkina Faso to commit atrocities against civilians on both sides of the border. A second massacre of 35 civilians of the Fulani community in Ogossogou by Dogon militia on 14 February 2020 took place because of army negligence and failure to act.

The ever-deteriorating situation in central Mali diverts attention and resources away from the implementation of the Agreement in the north. Moreover, the negligence and misconduct of Malian armed and security forces and their failure to protect civilians reduces the attraction for combatants of northern movements' to integrate into the reconstituted army and may lead populations to reject deployments of reconstituted units in the north, particularly if the "one third" principle is not respected.

Much of the discord between parties is rooted the strategy of the Government of Mali to co-opt and manipulate armed groups and militia active in northern Mali. This strategy started long before and did not change following the signing of the Agreement by the Government, in Algiers in 2015, which has undermined its implementation ever since. The establishment of the Government-requested sanctions regime by the Security Council in September 2017, aimed at targeting spoilers of the implementation of the peace process, did not change the strategy either.

The discrepancy between the Government's official statements and commitments to fully implement the Agreement, and the continued provision of support by Malian State actors to individuals designated by the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 2374 (2017) concerning Mali as spoiling the peace process, generated mistrust among signatory parties, in particular with the Coordination des mouvements de l'Azawad (CMA). Additional burdens and costs for the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration and subsequent integration processes have created confusion for the international community – the United Nations Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission in Mali (MINUSMA) in particular – as resources and good offices efforts have been partially diverted from their initial goals and main targets.

The Panel considers that such mistrust, burden and confusion have threatened and delayed the implementation of the Agreement on Peace and Reconciliation in Mali, and that key government officials responsible for implementing those actions and policies should be held accountable in accordance with Security Council resolution 2374 (2017).

One aspect of the Government's co-opting of armed groups is when State agents condone and actively protect their criminal enterprises in return for money. For example, payments by Mohamed Ould Mataly (MLi.008) to the Malian State security service made the latter appeal to authorities in the Niger to release drug traffickers arrested in April 2018. The notorious human trafficker, Baye Coulibaly, enjoys protection from State security forces that he pays when taking charge of arrested migrants to further exploit them and even use them for recruitment to armed groups.

Armed group involvement in organized crime continues to evolve mainly around the convoying of hashish, leading to deadly clashes potentially constituting ceasefire violations and threatening the implementation of the Agreement, under which parties commit to jointly fight organized crime. To help to stem the destabilizing drug flows, sanctions listing must also target suppliers. Morocco is very responsive to the Panel overall but did not provide either the Panel or the Niger authorities with available identifying information on individuals and entities supplying hashish to the criminal network of Mohamed Ben Ahmed Mahri (MLi.007), also known as Rouggy.

Besides drugs, the illicit trade of cigarette brands introduced in the Sahel from the United Arab Emirates mainly risks financing armed groups in Mali that undermine the implementation of the Agreement, as the Greece-produced brand American Legend did in the past. It also represents millions of dollars in lost revenue to regional States. Finally, a recent artisanal gold boom in northern Mali at the same time threatens and helps the implementation of the Agreement, as it drives the expansion strategy of CMA but also absorbs ex-combatants and draws youth away from joining armed groups.

I. Background

Mandate, travel and cooperation

1. By its resolution 2484 (2019), the Security Council decided to renew until 31 August 2020 the measures as set out in paragraphs 1 to 7 of resolution 2374 (2017). The sanctions regime established by resolution 2374 (2017) consists of a travel ban and an asset freeze applying to individuals and/or entities designated by the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 2374 (2017) concerning Mali as being responsible for or complicit in, or having engaged in, directly or indirectly, actions or policies that threaten the peace, security or stability of Mali. In resolution 2484 (2019), the Council requested the Secretary-General to re-establish the Panel of Experts on Mali and extended its mandate, as set out in paragraphs 11 to 15 of resolution 2374 (2017), until 30 September 2020.

2. Between November 2019 and mid-March 2020, the Panel undertook four missions in Mali, as well as two missions to the Niger and one to Morocco and to Burkina Faso. However, all travel to Mali planned by the Panel for April, May and June 2020 had to be cancelled in the context of the ongoing coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic. Nonetheless, the Panel was able to visit France in June. The Panel would like to express its sincere appreciation to the respective Governments for accommodating its visits. The Panel is also thankful for the support provided by the United Nations Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission in Mali (MINUSMA), and, more specifically, the Joint Mission Analysis Cell, the Panel's focal point within the Mission, and for the security arrangements made by the Department of Safety and Security of the Secretariat.

3. During its mandate, the Panel addressed a further 36 official communications to Member States, international organizations and private entities, receiving various levels of response to its requests (see annex I).

Methodology

4. The Panel endeavours to ensure compliance with the standards recommended by the Informal Working Group of the Security Council on General Issues of Sanctions in its December 2006 report (see S/2006/997, annex). While it intends to be as transparent as possible, in situations where identifying sources would expose them or others to unacceptable safety risks, the Panel withholds identifying information.

5. The Panel is equally committed to the highest degree of fairness and will endeavour to make available to parties, where appropriate and possible, any information in the report for which those parties may be cited, for their review, comment and response within a specified deadline.

6. The Panel safeguards the independence of its work against any effort to undermine its impartiality or create a perception of bias. The Panel approved the text, conclusions and recommendations in the present report based on consensus prior to its transmission to the President of the Security Council.

II. Agreement on Peace and Reconciliation in Mali: threats, obstructions and progress

A. Regional political and security context of the implementation of the Agreement

State-based and militia violence in Mali, Burkina Faso and the Niger impacting on Malian refugees and forcing returns

7. The regional environment has not been conducive to the implementation of the Agreement. The Panel notes a trend of increasing violence against civilians committed by armed and security forces of States during counter-insurgency operations in Mali, Burkina Faso and the Niger, as well as by ethnic-based militia against rival communities. Escalating violence against civilians in the centre of Mali diverts resources and attention from the north of Mali, reduces public support for the Agreement by delaying peace and impacts on the trust of communities and armed groups in the Government and its armed and security forces. Several communities across the Sahel feel either not protected by or even targeted by their respective Governments, contributing to the reinforcement of the legitimacy and role of ethnic-based militias.

8. Malian refugee communities in neighbouring countries are particularly affected by acts of violence. On 2 May 2020, Burkina Faso defence forces entered the Mentao refugee camp in the north of the country, which hosts 6,500 Malians, and reportedly beat and injured 32 Malian refugees on suspicion of complicity in a terrorist attack on a territorial gendarmerie unit of Djibo the same day. Reportedly, the Burkinabé self-defence militia, known as the Koglweogo, participated in the violence against Malian refugees.¹

9. CMA issued a communiqué in which it condemned the attack and called upon the Government of Burkina Faso to ensure the protection of refugees in accordance with international standards.² The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) also condemned the incident,³ prompting the Government of Burkina Faso to issue a communiqué on 5 May 2020 in which it justified the use of violence committed in pursuit of militants using the refugee camp as a hideout, but also promised an investigation into the matter.⁴

10. Sustained violence against Malian refugees in Burkina Faso has forced thousands of them to return home to Mali, while the environment conducive to their return, which under article 47 of the Agreement parties thereto engaged to create, is not there.⁵ Burkina Faso co-presides the Agreement Monitoring Committee.

Ethnic-based militias and their regional implications

11. Ethnic militias, which pretend to fill local security vacuums and some of which are officially associated with the operations of government forces – i.e., the Koglweogo and Dan Nan Ambassagou – have grown in political influence and local popularity to the extent that they have become uncontrollable and a major threat to security in the region.⁶ The creation of Dan Nan Ambassagou, and its exponential development since 2018 despite its formal dismantlement as decided by the Government of Mali, provides another illustration of the problematic relationship between the Malian State and ethnic-based militias.

12. Dan Nan Ambassagou has been identified by the Human Rights and Protection Division of MINUSMA as a perpetrator of violence, committing atrocities against other communities in central Mali,⁷ sometimes with the approval and support of local officials.⁸ Accused of killing over 150 civilians in Ogossogou village on 23 March 2019, Dan Nan Ambassagou was officially disbanded the next day by the Council of Ministers of the Government of Mali. The militia refused to abide by the Government's decision⁹ and continued to enjoy approval from a number of officials.¹⁰ On 24 February 2020, the Prime Minister, Boubou Cissé, issued a communiqué in which he called Dan Nan Ambassagou checkpoints illegal and ordered their immediate removal.¹¹ Nevertheless, the militia continues to control dozens of checkpoints on the main road between Sévaré, Bandiagara, Bankass and Koro, where Malian armed and security forces pass on a daily basis, including the high-level delegation led by the Governor of Mopti, General Abdoullaye Cissé, and the Chief of Staff of the Malian armed forces, General Abdoulaye Coulibaly, which visited Ogossogou on 14 February 2020 following a second large-scale massacre (see box).

⁶ Reportedly, ethnic militias committed almost 40 per cent of all atrocities against civilians in Mali between January and March 2020, second to terrorist armed groups. ⁸ For example, on 12 April 2018, the Mayor of the commune of Koporona in Koro cercle, Etienne Poudiougou, signed a public announcement ordering all Fulani to leave his constituency, following clashes between Dogon and Fulani communities over resources (see annex II). On 14 April 2018, the Office of the Prime Minister of Mali publicly denounced the Mayor's decision and called upon the judiciary to investigate the matter. Preventable Ogossogou attack on 14 February 2020

Malian armed and security forces could have prevented some of the attacks committed by ethnic militia in Mali, as for the second Ogossogou attack, described below. At a time when the first reconstituted units of the Malian armed forces are being deployed, such incidents erode the trust of local populations in the national army as an impartial security provider and reduce the appeal for members of armed groups to integrate, who may instead continue to protect their own communities, thereby threatening the implementation of the Agreement on Peace and Reconciliation in Mali.

On 14 February 2020, Dogon militia attacked Ogossogou village, killing 35 civilians of the Fulani community, including women and children as young as 4 years of age. Victims were chased into bushes, and some were mutilated and others decapitated. Over 19 other civilians, including five children, remain unaccounted for.^{a}

The killings were perpetrated after a Malian army unit that, at the request of the President of Mali, had specifically been tasked with protecting Ogossogou Peul residents, following a first massacre of 160 civilians on 23 March 2019 at the same location, had vacated its position before its replacement unit had arrived.

More than 10 hours before the killing on 14 February 2020, General Keba Sangaré was called numerous times and received messages informing him of the threat, preparation and beginning of the killing at Ogossogou village.^b General Keba Sangaré, in his capacity as Chief of Staff of the Malian army and Commander of the joint forces headquarters for operations in the central region, had the ultimate decision-making power and authority to instruct the army unit posted at Ogossogou village not to leave on 13 February 2020 before the replacement unit had arrived. The General also had the power and authority to order an immediate replacement of the army unit at Ogossogou village, as he had been informed of the departure of the army unit at around 1700 hours on 13 February 2020, more than 10 hours before the attack.

In addition, General Keba Sanagaré gave a false assurance to his hierarchy, including the Minister of Defence, that the unit would not leave before the arrival of the replacement unit, preventing potential mitigating measures from others.^c

The attackers had enough time to kill civilians and destroy properties before the army arrived at around 0800 hours on 14 February 2020. However, there were troops in Koro, located 54 kilometres away on a mostly tarmacked road, that could have intervened within hours, if instructed to do so.

Following the attack, the President of Mali suspended General Keba Sangaré as Commander of the joint forces headquarters for operations in the central region. In May 2020, he was also replaced as Chief of Staff of the Malian army.

^c Ibid.

13. Dogon militia are expanding into Burkina Faso, involving coordinated operations between Mali-based groups with their Burkinabé counterparts, mostly in the cercles of Bankass and Koro in Mali and the commune of Kombori in Burkina Faso.¹² Joint militia operations involving abuses against civilians strain cooperation between Mali and Burkina Faso, as accusations and contradictory accounts of events that followed the Abaye village incident, described below, illustrate.

Nations fail to stop massacre", 18 March 2020.

14. On 16 November 2019, the Malian army unit based in Ouankoro commune in the cercle of Bankass intervened to stop an attack on Fulani civilians in the villages of Bidi and Sankoro by Dogon militia members from Burkina Faso and Mali. In pursuit of militia fighters, the Malian army unit entered the Burkinabé village of Abaye. Predominantly inhabited by Dogon, the army faced strong armed opposition from the militia. Subsequently, the Malian army unit requested aerial support, which intervened promptly and enabled the arrest of over 20 militia members,¹³ more than half of them with Burkinabé identity papers. These presumed Burkinabé Dogon militia fighters were later handed over to the Government of Burkina Faso, which contested the account of events of the Government of Mali, accused Mali of atrocities on its soil and reacted strongly against the intervention by the Malian army on its territory, which it claimed to have happened without it being informed in accordance with regional protocols of the Group of Five for the Sahel.¹⁴

15. In their regional expansion strategy, Dogon militias use Burkinabé villages, such as Abaye and others in the commune of Kombori, as rear bases for operations in Malian villages bordering Burkina Faso. This is mostly because armed Fulani groups also operating in areas around the Malian commune of Ouankoro prevent Dogon militias from moving directly from Bandiagara, their stronghold in Mali, to Burkina Faso. Several leaders of Burkinabé Dogon militia served previously in Mali with Dan Nan Ambassagou before travelling back home to run their own local franchises in Burkina Faso, where they support the Government's security operations, as confirmed by one Burkinabé Dogon leader, Drabo Yacouba.¹⁵

16. Fulani militias also continue violence unabated against Dogon and other communities in Burkina Faso, Mali and the Niger, which is equally straining cooperation between the countries. Among the latest cases is the reported killing of over 30 ethnic Dogon civilians, including 24 children, in the village of Sobane Da on 8 June 2020.¹⁶ Fulani militias also portray themselves as "self-defence" groups and operate in a much wider area stretching into Mali, Burkina Faso and the Niger. There is no unified Fulani community-based militia in the region.¹⁷

Further regional observations

17. Algeria continued to hold meetings with Malian signatory and compliant armed groups to facilitate their dialogue with the Government of Mali on numerous contentious issues. This helped in the preparation of the visit of the Prime Minister of Mali to Kidal in March 2020, the first of its kind since 2014. Ahead of the arrival of the first battalion of the reconstituted army in Kidal, the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Mali, Tiébilé Drame, visited Algiers on 3 February 2020 to pass a message from the President of Mali, Ibrahim Boubacar Keita, to the President of Algeria, Abdelmadjid Tebboune, to garner regional support for implementation of the Agreement. Algeria then pledged 5 million euros for equipment for the first battalions of the reconstituted Malian army.

B. Political and institutional component

Pending institutional reforms and legislative elections in Taoudenni and Ménaka regions

18. Major political and institutional reforms provided for by the Agreement are still pending and dependent on a fragile consensus amid a turbulent political environment in Mali. The inclusive national dialogue held in December 2019 led to a large political consensus brokered among Malian social and political actors, which enabled legislative elections to be held in March and April 2020. There was an understanding between signatory armed groups and the Government that institutional and political reforms would be initiated either in parallel or immediately after the legislative elections. Trust between parties remained low, however, prompting signatory armed groups to try to leverage their participation in the legislative elections to secure guarantees on institutional reforms that were outstanding.

19. On 25 January 2020, CMA issued a communiqué posing three conditions for its participation in the legislative elections in March 2020, namely: (a) the start of administrative and territorial restructuring; (b) the holding of elections in 12 new cercles (six in Taoudenni, four in Ménaka and two in Gao (Achibogho and Almoustrat)); and (c) ensuring the participation of refugees and internally displaced persons in the coming elections. That CMA position triggered another round of dialogue, which led to a proposal by the Government to appoint by decree, for the new legislature, four members of parliament for Ménaka and six for Taoudenni. Most armed groups objected to the proposal, as those members of parliament would not be seen as legitimate.

20. Pushed to formalize its commitments, on 26 February 2020, the Government, through the Ministry of Territorial Administration and Decentralization, issued a road map presenting a detailed, time-bound and budgeted plan for starting administrative and territorial restructuring, including by holding two rounds of legislative by-elections in Taoudenni and Ménaka in November and December 2020 and a constitutional referendum between August and December 2020.¹⁸ Nevertheless, CMA continued to press for stronger political commitment. To reassure CMA, on 21 March 2020 the Prime Minister transmitted a letter presenting the Government's plan for by-elections. CMA then welcomed the plan and accepted to unconditionally participate in the legislative elections, while reminding the Government about the participation of refugees and internally displaced persons.¹⁹

21. In addition, on 15 April 2020, the Minister for Territorial Administration and Decentralization, Alpha Ba, established a national commission for the preparation of legislative by-elections in the regions of Taoudenni and Ménaka as well as the cercles of Almoustrat et Achibogho. The commission is composed of government representatives, four representatives for each signatory armed group and three for the "inclusivité" movement.²⁰

Government coordination of the implementation of the Agreement

22. In its midterm report, the Panel had noted a sense of unease from armed movements with two decrees creating new commissions coordinating the Government's actions towards implementation of the Agreement, namely as to whether and how those commissions would replace or overrule the existing inter-Malian consultation framework presided by the Minister for Social Cohesion, Peace and National Reconciliation, Lassine Bouaré (S/2020/158/Rev.1, paras. 30–34). Ultimately, neither the interministerial commission chaired by the Prime Minister nor the joint commission of Government and development partners became operational. While the January 2020 session of the Agreement Monitoring Committee – the first session to be held after the cancelled session in Kidal in September 2019 – had called for the reinvigoration of the inter-Malian consultation framework, its weekly meetings did not resume. In June 2020, the Committee noted the Government's intention to articulate a new methodology for the framework at a higher level,²¹ again indicating the intention to change and replace a workable framework.

Participation of women in the implementation of the Agreement

23. Women have a very limited presence in the peace process. Five out of 25 commissioners of the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission are women. Four out of 70 commissioners of the national security sector reform council are women. There are no women among the 14 members of the Agreement Monitoring Committee, and there is only one woman in its justice and reconciliation subcommittee, out of a total of 24 members across the four subcommittees.

24. In its resolution 2531 (2020), the Security Council urged the Malian parties to implement the recommendations of the high-level workshop on the participation of women in the mechanisms established by the Agreement, including by increasing the number of women in the follow-up mechanisms of the Agreement from 3 to 30 per cent; creating an independent women's observatory to monitor the peace process; and establishing a monitoring framework to follow up on the adopted measures (S/2020/476, para. 51).

C. Security and defence component

Incomplete redeployment of reconstituted army units

25. By 7 May 2020, 1,330 former combatants had integrated into the armed forces, to be deployed either in the north as part of reconstituted national army units (792), or within national guard or counter-terrorism units (538) (ibid., para. 39). The accelerated disarmament, demobilization and reintegration and subsequent integration process that had started on 6 November 2018 had targeted 1,840 Operational Coordination Mechanism²² personnel from the different compliant armed groups. A catch-up phase, meant to replace medically unfit and absent Operational Coordination Mechanism personnel, should make up the difference, but had yet to start at the time of writing the present report, as was the case for a new wave of 1,160 combatants needed to reach the objective of integrating 3,000 elements from compliant armed groups by 30 June 2020, as recommended in Security Council resolution 2480 (2019). In addition, by the end of April 2020, 225 soldiers assigned to reconstituted units in the north had yet to physically join their units.²³

²¹ See Mali, final communiqué of the 40th session of the Agreement Monitoring Committee, 11 June 2020. Available at http://primature.ml/comite-de-suivi-de-laccord-csa-11-juin-2020/.

26. The absence of the above-mentioned 225 soldiers is due largely to a leave period decided by the Chief of Staff of the Malian army, General Keba Sangaré, following the official end of their training on 2 September 2019, as highlighted in the Panel's 2020 midterm report (S/2020/158/Rev.1). Although the majority of the soldiers concerned were from the north of the country and had no family members with whom to stay in Bamako, they were not given means of transport to go back to their home areas and were exposed to major security risks as a result. Among the absentees were the 20 soldiers abducted from a public bus and the four detained by Burkinabé armed forces while trying to reach their home areas in the north of Mali in early September 2019 (ibid., para. 37). While the four detainees were released by 10 March 2020,²⁴ the abducted soldiers are still unaccounted for.

27. The abductions and detentions in September 2019, which were a consequence of a prolonged leave of the soldiers assigned to reconstituted units, marked the beginning of the Government's planning errors and delaying tactics that provoked protests and negative reactions from the armed movements.

28. When eventually called to duty by the same General at the end of December 2019,²⁵ newly integrated soldiers from compliant armed groups were deployed in reconstituted units across the country,²⁶ in breach of article 21 of the Agreement, which stipulates that reconstituted forces shall be redeployed throughout the northern regions. In November 2019, parties had specifically agreed that integrated combatants be deployed in their region of origin and decided that three reconstituted battalions be formed by the end of the year: one in Kidal, one in Timbuktu, one in to Gao, and one reconstituted company in Ménaka.²⁷ The decision to deploy units across the country triggered protests from armed groups²⁸ and stalled the process for several weeks, to be resolved in mid-January 2020.

29. Besides the geographical orientation of reconstituted units, the Government also trampled on the principle of each reconstituted unit being equally composed of each of the three signatory parties. The one-third principle was part of the redeployment plan adopted during a meeting of the Technical Commission on Security²⁹ on 28 November 2019,³⁰ which recommended that redeployed units have the same command structure and composition as the Operational Coordination Mechanism.³¹ However, during a high-level extraordinary session of the subcommittee on defence

²⁹ The Technical Commission on Security is a commission created pursuant to the Agreement that answers to the defence and security subcommittee of the Agreement Monitoring Committee and is mandated to address security issues, monitor the ceasefire and implement trust-building measures among signatories.

³⁰ Minutes of the 43rd session of the Technical Commission on Security, 28 November 2019.

and security of the Agreement Monitoring Committee on 21 January 2020, the Deputy General Chief of Staff of the Malian army stated that the one-third principle would not be applicable to all redeployed units.³² Three days later, the Government submitted figures for the Kidal battalion, which had 35 elements in excess of its allocated quota.³³ On 31 January, parties finally did agree to the one-third principle in terms of both composition and command,³⁴ but this did not bring an end to the parties' bickering.

30. In terms of composition, on 8 February 2020 the Operational Coordination Mechanism and the joint observation and verification team in Gao screened the first two companies leaving for Kidal, which were found to respect the one-third principle. However, on 10 March 2020, the departure of the third company from Gao to Kidal was called off at the last minute by the armed movements for not respecting the principle, a move the President of the Technical Commission on Security considered justified.³⁵ Meanwhile, the company that had left for Ménaka two days before had not been screened because the joint observation and verification team members from armed movements had refused to carry out the task, having not been paid since February 2020.³⁶

31. During the session of the Technical Commission on Security held on 11 March 2020, the representative of the Chief of Staff of the armed forces argued that non-respect of the one-third principle by the third company to Kidal was due to absences, but that this was explicitly not the Government's responsibility. In view of the Panel, the situation creating absentees is precisely a consequence of the Government's poor planning, as trained and newly integrated elements from armed movements were not engaged for four months and were not provided with the logistical arrangements necessary to join their units.

32. In terms of command, the Chief of Staff of the armed forces continues to reject the one-third principle,³⁷ showing much reluctance to appoint former members of armed movements. Notably, for the battalion in Gao, former Plateforme³⁸ commander Daouda Hama Zouna Maiga was supposed to be in command, according to a designation letter dated 30 January 2020 sent by the Chief of Staff of the national guard to the Chief of Staff of the armed forces.³⁹ However, he was not appointed, and instead the unit is commanded by Mohamed Lamine Ag Kilita, the former commander of the Malian armed forces base in Intahaka who was deployed in the Malian armed forces in Kidal in 2013,⁴⁰ and was never part of any armed movement. ⁴⁰ Posted in Kidal, Ag Kilita is quoted in an article from 2013 as saying, "I voted for IBK and so did all the soldiers that are under me because we know that we need a strong leader to deal with the problems in the north ... Mali needs a dictator". See Rukmini Callimac (Associated Press), "Mali presidential race goes to runoff; politician known for firmness takes initial lead", 680 News, 2 August 2013.

battalion to be deployed in Timbuktu, a similar swap was attempted, to replace the intended former CMA commander, Jamal Ben Sidi Mohamed, with a Colonel Alkassim, originally from Kidal but still in the Malian armed forces. Jamal Ben Sidi was eventually confirmed, however, in an attempt by the Government to show some goodwill.⁴¹

33. While, based on article 22 of the Agreement, the redeployed forces should include a substantial number of persons from the northern regions, including in positions of command, the Government appears to be willing to respect the one-third principle only in terms of composition. In terms of command, the Government tries to work its way around the one-third principle by appointing Malian armed forces hailing from the north (but not from the two armed movements) in command positions so as to still be in line with the Agreement. However, by doing so, the Government backtracks on decisions it earlier agreed upon within the implementing framework of the Technical Commission on Security that the command and composition of reconstituted units are shared equally between the three parties.

34. Disagreement over the command of reconstituted units reached a climax when, on 6 May 2020, CMA refused access to Kidal for the third company of 120 men who had come from Gao to complete the battalion. The pretext was to prevent the spread of COVID-19, but the real reason was dissatisfaction resulting from 21 of their officers declared inapt, including a captain who CMA wished had been put in command of the Kidal battalion, without being replaced.⁴²

35. At the time of writing the present report, discussions were under way to solve the imbalance of the third company by integrating elements of movements, as part of the catch-up phase, in situ,⁴³ as proposed by the President of the Technical Commission on Security on 27 May 2020.⁴⁴ CMA has set respect for the one-third principle as a condition for completion of the first wave before moving into a second wave of integration,⁴⁵ which was initially supposed to take place at the same time as the catch-up phase. Meanwhile, the Government has expressed strong reservations about a proposal for decentralized integration and insists on its exclusive competence to manage reconstituted units.⁴⁶

36. The catch-up phase was set to start on 24 June 2020, and is to be followed by the second wave of integration. As a result, the target of integrating 3,000 elements by 30 June 2020 was not met.⁴⁷

⁴¹ His confirmation was communicated during a session of the Technical Commission on Security held on 24 April 2020 and was presented as a demonstration of goodwill by the Government, after having rejected the one-third principle during the session held on 11 March 2020.

Northern Development Zone and the sustainable development fund

37. An update regarding the Northern Development Zone and the sustainable development fund was contained in annex I to the Panel's midterm report (S/2020/158/Rev.1).

38. While the steering committee of the sustainable development fund has started to examine projects and approved a procedures manual on 21 March 2020, CMA continues to demand the inclusion of armed movements in both the steering and management committees. In June 2019, the Government had already committed to revising the relevant decree (ibid., annex VIII). Pending such revision, during the meeting of the Agreement Monitoring Committee in June 2020, parties committed to more inclusive management of the fund.

39. The suggestion by CMA in November 2018 to conduct an audit on expenses engaged under the fund prior to its creation – after the Panel had demonstrated these expense to be overrepresented and wrongly represented ($\frac{S}{2019}/636$, paras. 56-60) – is no longer on the table of discussions in the relevant subcommittees of the Agreement Monitoring Committee.

E. Reconciliation, justice and humanitarian component

40. In accordance with the Agreement, the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission covers human rights violations during coups, political crises and rebellions since 1960. As at 23 May 2020, 16,478 victims and witnesses have come forward with allegations of human rights violations. Registration is still ongoing and testimonies are confidential. Among the testimonies are 10,000 from women and 600 from children. On 8 December 2019, the Commission held its first public hearings in Bamako. A total of 13 victims were heard. The Commission plans to hold five more public hearings in 2020 and 2021. Malian refugees abroad will be given the opportunity to participate in the public hearings by registering with a team dispatched to record the testimonies.

41. To provide for reparations, a bill on reparations and a set of measures to support its implementation were submitted to the Ministry of Social Cohesion, Peace and National Reconciliation for approval.⁴⁸ The mandate of the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission will end in 2021, at which time a final report will be issued.

III. Armed groups

42. The balance of power between armed groups in northern Mali has not changed since the Panel's previous report, despite tense confrontations that took place during the legislative elections in April 2020 in cercles where armed groups were involved in incidents in relation to potential electoral fraud. The stand-offs between CMA and Malian armed forces protecting official buildings in Goundam,⁴⁹ and between CMA and the Groupe d'autodéfense des Touaregs Imghad et leurs alliés (GATIA)⁵⁰ in Aguelhok, show again the limits of outsourcing the security provision around elections to armed groups that support competing candidates.

43. In parallel, the past few months have seen significant developments in the regional context, with an open conflict between terrorist armed groups (see below) and the increasing involvement of youth from northern Mali and abroad in the gold rush, including members of signatory, compliant and terrorist armed groups, draining essential human resources, vehicles and potential recruits from those entities (see paras. 120–124 below).

Jama'a Nusrat ul-Islam wa al-Muslimin offensive on Islamic State West African Province

44. Jama'a Nusrat ul-Islam wa al-Muslimin (JNIM – QDe.159), led by Iyad Ag Ghali (QDi.316), in particular its katibas in Macina, Serma and northern Burkina Faso under the command of Amadou Koufa (QDi.425) and Jafar Dicko,⁵¹ respectively, launched in March and April 2020 a major offensive on the Islamic State West Africa Province (ISWAP – QDe.162) katiba of Adnan Abou Walid al-Sahraoui (QDi.415), known as Islamic State in the Greater Sahara (QDe.163).

45. JNIM initially evicted ISWAP from the Gourma area, with the latter retreating to the Hausa communities, on the western bank of the Niger river between Ansongo and the border with the Niger, and to Burkina Faso and the Niger. At the time of writing the present report, a counter-offensive reportedly pushed JNIM back to the I-n-Tillit area. Localized skirmishes also occurred in Gao and Kidal regions, for example, between Talataye and I-n-Délimane; however, Ménaka region remained unaffected to date, because of the reported existence of a non-aggression pact between JNIM, ISWAP and compliant armed groups.⁵²

Collusion between compliant and terrorist armed groups

46. The Panel did not corroborate information received⁵³ that members of CMA had participated in the JNIM offensive on ISWAP;⁵⁴ however, the reinforcements, of around 30 pick-up truck vehicles and dozens of motorbikes under the command of Bah Ag Moussa (QDi.424)⁵⁵ and former Haut conseil pour l'unité de l'Azawad

⁵⁴ Except the potential participation on 31 May 2020 of Bahrou Ag Mahamad, from HCUA Talataye, in fighting alongside his brother Saghdoudoune, from Ansar Eddine, against the Islamic State units of Ikaraye and Ousama Al-Fulani.

(HCUA)⁵⁶ military commander Bokhaba Ag Hamzatta,⁵⁷ sent from northern Gourma and Kidal region to Ndaki and bordering areas between Mali, Burkina Faso and the Niger, used CMA flags and banners to prevent potential interception by international forces.

47. The Panel received confidential information indicating that members of the Mouvement arabe de l'Azawad (MAA)-Plateforme⁵⁸ of Hanoune Ould Ali in Tabankort and Almoustarat, including his military chief of staff, Alghamar Ould Hamadi, reportedly participated in the attack against the Malian armed forces bases in Tarkint on 20 March and Bamba on 6 April 2020,⁵⁹ which JNIM claimed to have carried out.⁶⁰ Alghamar was reportedly wounded during the attack on Tarkint, and three of his tribesmen were buried in the days after.⁶¹ The potential implication of HCUA elements from Kidal, Ber and/or Timbuktu in the Bamba attack is still being investigated.

48. The Panel received a letter dated 22 May 2020 (see annex VIII) from the President of CMA, Bilal ag Acherif, in response to its midterm report to formally deny all accusations of CMA collusion with terrorist groups and responsibility for crimes committed by individuals claiming allegiance to CMA. The letter pointed out a factual error – that Salah Ag Ahmed led a CMA patrol that killed four combatants of the Mouvement pour le salut de l'Azawad of the Daoussak (MSA-D) and three civilians in Agardanamos – that had by then also been remarked by the Panel and corrected in the reissued version of the midterm report (S/2020/158/Rev.1).

Manipulation of armed groups and militia by the Malian State⁶²

49. Since the inception of the first community-based self-defence militia in Gao in the 1990s,⁶³ the Malian State has been repeatedly accused of co-opting and supporting ethnic- or community-based militia and manipulating armed groups in central and northern Mali in the context of armed conflict with insurgent armed groups from northern Mali.⁶⁴

He was previously in charge of the coordination of Ansar Eddine units fighting alongside CMA against GATIA in 2016 and 2017, and was wounded on 14 February 2020 in Tin Zaouatène by French forces.

⁵⁸ In September 2013, MAA split into two factions. The faction led by Sidi Ibrahim Ould Sidati joined CMA, while the other faction, led by Ahmed Ould Sidi Mohamed, joined the Plateforme.

⁶¹ Communication with confidential source.

⁶² To prevent the potential identification of the Panel's confidential sources, and in accordance with the Panel's investigation methodology (see paras. 4–6 above), no specific indication of time and location of the Panel's testimonial evidence, all collected during meetings and interviews conducted in Mali between 2018 and 2020, or of the nature and origin of the documentary evidence collected over the same period, will be provided in the present section.

⁶³ Ganda Koy, which means in Songhai "the lords of the land".

⁶⁴ The Panel is aware of the existing categorization of armed groups made in academic literature, notably the distinction between militia, defined either as "community-driven" or by their "anti-rebel dimension", and "insurgent-affiliated" armed groups; see Corinna Jentzsch, Stathis N. Kalyvas and Livia Isabella Schubiger, "Militias in civil wars", Journal of Conflict Resolution, vol. 59, No. 5 (August 2015). However, the Security Council resolutions by which the Panel's mandate has been established and renewed only refer to armed groups.

A pattern of outsourcing counter-insurgency

50. The manipulation of and support for militias and armed groups by the Malian State, or State agents, has been different in degree and kind, depending on the situation, period and location, and has significantly evolved over time. Several parameters, such as autonomy over strategy, command and control, recruitment, finance, resources, logistics and operations, can describe the type and level of State implication in the inception and general functioning of those armed actors.

51. The State agents in charge of the relationship with militias and proxies also differ, including cases where direct support is provided locally by State representatives without the approval or knowledge of central institutions.⁶⁵ In Mali, two institutions have been involved in outsourcing conflict to, supporting and manipulating armed groups:

(a) The Malian armed forces (Forces armées maliennes), which are in charge of the provision of military logistics (vehicles, trucks, fuel and ammunition, either from their own stockpiles or through specific procurement) and the provision of human resources through the administrative release of active soldiers, non-commissioned officers, officers and senior officers,⁶⁶ and have participated in joint military operations and patrols;

(b) The Malian State security service (Direction générale de la sécurité d'État), which is in charge of the manipulation strategy with regard to armed groups, of the political and financial aspects of its implementation, and of the handling of key individuals as sources of privileged information or State agents acting on its behalf.

52. In addition to the support provided by the Malian State, pro-government militia received significant financial assistance from influential businessmen, smugglers and traders from northern Mali, in exchange for State security protection and promises of impunity.⁶⁷ The Panel collected evidence of an attempt by the Malian State security service to pressure the Government of the Niger to release members of the trafficking network of listed individual Mohamed Ben Ahmed Mahri, known as Rouggy (MLi.007), while simultaneous steps were taken in person by Mohamed Ould Mataly (MLi.008) and Hanoune Ould Ali. Rouggy's network in Niamey was dismantled in April 2018 in connection with the seizure of 2.5 tons of cannabis on 14 June 2018.⁶⁸

53. The Panel was provided with confidential information indicating that such interventions to release drug traffickers, who were convicted by the justice system of ⁶⁶ Different justifications have been used, publicly or in confidential discussions with members of the international community, in particular in the case of senior officers, such as Gamou and Ould Meydou, who were both gradually promoted from Colonel in 2011 to Division General on 29 October 2018; for other ranks, they were mostly officially labelled as "deserters", but were in fact "on administrative leave": only insurgents were dismissed from the armed forces (meeting with diplomatic sources, 2018).

Mohamed Ould Mataly referred implicitly to that tacit agreement in a meeting with the Panel when complaining that, after all that he and his community had done for Mali, including in 2012 against the rebellion, he and his family members, Mohamed Rouggy and Mahri Sidi Amar Ben Daha (MLi.006), known as Yoro Ould Daha, did not deserve to be subject to targeted sanctions (meeting with Ould Mataly, Bamako, November 2019).

the Niger on 29 April 2020 (see paras. 87–97 below), were part of a large-scale protection scheme covering members of the Lemhar Arab community, including those arrested on suspicion of terrorism, provided in exchange for monthly payments made by Mohamed Ould Mataly, at least until July 2018, to General Moussa Diawara, head of the Malian State security service, and his deputy in charge of counter-terrorism, Colonel Ibrahima Sanogo.⁶⁹

Historical background: pro-government militia

54. Researchers have pointed to the former Prime Minister, Soumeylou Boubeye Maïga, as being the designer of the first proxy counter-insurgency strategy of the Malian State, as former head of the Malian State security service and belonging to the Songhai community in Gao.⁷⁰ The most visible aspect of the strategy was the official launch in April 1994 of a counter-insurgency militia aimed at protecting communities living on the banks of the Niger river from Tuareg insurgents, the Mouvement patriotique Ganda Koy, by Malian red beret army officers⁷¹ of Songhai origin and Ali Bady Maïga.⁷² The Ganda Izo ("the sons of the land"), created in 2008, replicated that configuration, with a non-commissioned officer of the Malian armed forces of Fulani origin, Sergeant Amadou Diallo, as its military commander.

55. Militias controlled or co-opted by government representatives can still "shift their loyalties and may pursue agendas that are at odds with the interests of the State".⁷³ Ganda Koy and the Ganda Izo, responsible for large-scale massacres of

⁷⁰ Grégory Chauzal and Thibault van Damme, The Roots of Mali's Conflict: Moving Beyond the 2012 Crisis (The Hague, Netherlands Institute of International Relations Clingendael, 2015); investigation journalists have also reported on the role of Soumeylou Boubeye Maïga as designer of the strategy.

civilians,⁷⁴ were eventually the target of security operations from the Malian armed and security forces, including the "catch and release policy" of its leaders.⁷⁵

56. State agents can also join jihadist groups if it serves a more global effort against insurgent armed groups, as observed in 2012 in Gao, where a broad coalition that included members of pro-government militias (MAA, Ganda Koy and Ganda Izo) emerged in June 2012 to expel, alongside the Mouvement pour l'unification et le jihad en Afrique de l'Ouest (MUJAO – QDe.134), the Organization of Al-Qaida in the Islamic Maghreb (QDe.014) and Ansar Eddine (QDe.135), the military and political leadership of the Mouvement national de libération de l'Azawad (MNLA), which declared the independence of Azawad on 6 April 2012.⁷⁶ This opportunistic fluidity between Ganda Koy, Ganda Izo and MUJAO can still be observed with Islamic State, now opposing the strategy of the Malian State,⁷⁷ with military commanders from Gabero, Tassiga, Fafa and Ouattagouna retaining key positions within the terrorist organization and exerting their grip on the area between Gao, Ansongo and the border with the Niger.⁷⁸

Historical background: army proxies

57. Between 2006 and 2008, two Colonels of the Malian armed forces and former rebels, Mohamed Abderahmane Ould Meydou and El Hadj Ag Gamou, and Lieutenant-Colonel Lamana Ould Bou, from the State security service, were co-opted as military agents of the State⁷⁹ in the north of Mali to lead the response⁸⁰ of the Government of President Amadou Toumani Touré⁸¹ against the rebel group led by Ibrahim Ag Bahanga.⁸² The establishment of those army proxies, consisting of regular soldiers of the Malian armed forces alongside Arab and Imghad militiamen, was partly funded by private Arab businessmen from Ber, such as Dina Ould Deya and Oumar Ould Ahmed (see paras. 95 and 99 below).⁸³ On 21 January 2009, Gamou's militia, the "Delta Force", supported by regular Malian armed forces, successfully chased Bahanga's group out of Tigharghar.⁸⁴

58. In 2012, residual elements of Ould Meydou's militia and tribesmen from the Tilemsi valley created the Mouvement arabe de l'Azawad,⁸⁵ headed by Ahmed Ould Sidi Mohamed and financially supported again by some prominent Arab businessmen, including those involved in the Air Cocaine case.⁸⁶

59. The most blatant case of creation by the Malian State of an army proxy is GATIA, established in May 2014 after the failed attempt by the Malian armed forces to return by force to Kidal on the occasion of a visit by the then Prime Minister, Moussa Mara. The Panel was able to access a confidential report detailing the various forms of logistical assistance and support provided in 2014 and 2015 by the Malian armed forces for the establishment of GATIA, including through the release of military personnel,⁸⁷ the procurement of vehicles and the provision of army pick-up and transport trucks, fuel and ammunition.⁸⁸ GATIA progressively gained autonomy as an armed group, changing its strategy from taking over Kidal from CMA to community protection. This strategy was somehow made official in October 2017 during the second round of negotiations in Anéfis, Kidal region, with CMA.⁸⁹

60. The Panel also documented that in 2016, the Malian State security service recruited and paid a dozen dozo hunters to guide Malian armed forces units tracking supporters of Amadou Koufa in the cercle of Koro. In April 2019, the Malian State security service reportedly sent four retired Dogon army officers to prevent the dismantlement of the military apparatus of Dan Nan Ambassagou following the first massacre of hundreds of Fulani civilians in Ogossogou Peul on 23 March 2019. The military chief of staff of Dan Nan Ambassagou, Youssouf Toloba, has a long history as a militiaman with Ganda Koy and Ganda Izo. The political representative of Dan Nan Ambassagou, Mamadou Goudienkilé, holds the rank of Captain with the Malian armed forces.

Counter-insurgency politics: weakening of the Coordination des mouvements de l'Azawad and creation of the Coordination des Mouvements de l'Entente

61. In 2017, the Government of Mali progressively changed its counter-insurgency strategy and abandoned direct military support to army proxies, following intense pressure from the Government of the United States of America⁹⁰ and the adoption by the Security Council of the sanctions regime on 5 September 2017 pursuant to resolution 2374 (2017). With the exception of the residual logistical support provided between 2017 and 2019 to the GATIA-MSA-D coalition, in the context of joint operations aimed at countering the growing influence of Islamic State in the Greater Sahara in Ménaka region and in the Gourma area,⁹¹ the Panel has not received any information indicating that the Malian armed forces are still providing assistance and support to armed groups in northern Mali.⁹²

62. However, the Panel documented, as described below, how the Malian State security service, under the direction of General Moussa Diawara, became the new institutional vector of an unofficial strategy aimed at obstructing through prolonged delay the implementation of the Agreement. Such a strategy, which was reportedly elaborated by an inner circle close to the President of Mali, disrupted efforts made by other officials of the Government and its administrative bodies to move forward with the priority tasks identified by the Agreement Monitoring Committee.⁹³

Divide and rule

63. The Government of Mali has acted in breach of the principle of "implementation in good faith" of the Agreement, provided for in article 2 thereof. In this context, the Malian State security service incited, encouraged and facilitated the fragmentation of CMA. More specifically, the Panel received first-hand information about direct financing by the Malian State security service of key individuals who created splinter groups of MNLA in 2016. Such splits and divisions contributed to weakening and destabilizing CMA, resulting in a change in the balance of power between MNLA and HCUA. The Panel also received confidential information indicating that in 2019, the Malian State security service fuelled the internal divisions of the Plateforme in Timbuktu and Taoudenni by manipulating lists for disarmament, demobilization and reintegration on behalf of the different components of the Plateforme, so as to paralyse further the functioning of the Agreement Monitoring Committee and the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration process (S/2019/636, paras. 48–49).

64. The Malian State security service was also instrumental in the creation and rise of the Coordination des Mouvements de l'Entente (CME), founded in November 2017. Its founder, Mohamed Ousmane Ag Mohamedoune (MLi.003),⁹⁴ was designated on 20 December 2018 by the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 2374 (2017) concerning Mali for actions taken and policies that obstructed by prolonged delay and threatened the implementation of the Agreement, as detailed by the Panel in its previous reports.

65. With the support of the Malian State security service, Mohamed Ousmane and CME successfully established themselves, in particular to the MINUSMA leadership ⁹¹ In particular in the context of the Koufra joint operations (see S/2018/581, paras. 68, 180–181 and 184 and annex XIV).

⁹² With regard to the situation in central Mali, see paras. 7–16 above.

⁹⁴ Mohamed Ousmane cumulates the following functions: founder of COMPIS-15; founder and spokesperson of CME; Secretary-General of the Coalition pour le peuple de l'Azawad (CPA) since June 2015, after taking over the group from Ibrahim Ag Mohamed Assaleh; regional representative for Timbuktu of the political party Convergence pour le développement du Mali of former government minister Housseini Amion Guindo; unsuccessful candidate during the most recent legislative elections in Goundam; President of the Conseil supérieur des Kel Razzaf-Ichérifen, after taking over from Mohamed Ali Ag Mattahel, known as Doly; and founder and President of his own political party, the Mouvement pour la restauration de la dignité et la souveraineté du peuple et de la nation, launched on 4 September 2019 in Bamako.

and the international mediation team, as an organization representing the "inclusivité".⁹⁵ The Malian State security intelligence officer responsible for handling Mohamed Ousmane between 2017 and 2019, Colonel Bougadary Singaré, was acting undercover as head of the support unit for reconciliation and special adviser to the Minister of Social Cohesion, Peace and National Reconciliation of Mali, Lassine Bouaré. Colonel Singaré was replaced in 2020 by Lieutenant-Colonel Malick Yero Dicko.

66. In 2018, the Malian State security service actively engaged other parts of the Government to advocate for the demands of CME to be included in the different mechanisms (for example, disarmament, demobilization and reintegration, and subsequent integration) and interim measures (for example, interim authorities) provided for in the Agreement and its annexes (S/2018/581, paras. 26 and 98–100 and annex VIII). Moussa Diawara personally intervened, with the High Representative of the Head of State for the implementation of the Agreement, to make sure that relevant quotas for disarmament, demobilization and reintegration were attributed to CME in Timbuktu region, to the detriment of CMA.

67. The handling of lists for disarmament, demobilization and reintegration by the Malian State security service also resulted in the sale of opportunities to join the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration process for an average of 500,000 CFA francs, the exact price depending on the rank, including to individuals from southern Mali and Bamako, creating frustration among actual members of armed groups and communities of northern Mali. The Panel was informed that Colonel Singaré was directly involved in the marketing of disarmament, demobilization and reintegration slots initially allocated to CME.

68. The Panel documented that a few months after the designation of Mohamed Ousmane for targeted sanctions on 20 December 2018, Colonel Singaré summoned the leaders of the different components of CME to his office in order to put an end to dissenting views that were challenging the primacy of Mohamed Ousmane over the coordination. The leaders then had to approve forged minutes of a meeting unanimously deciding the reappointment of Mohamed Ousmane as President and spokesperson of CME, instead of Hassan Ag Mehdi, known as "Colonel Jimmy" and Secretary-General of the Front populaire de l'Azawad (FPA).

69. Lastly, the Panel collected evidence demonstrating that the Malian State security service was until recently still establishing lists for disarmament, demobilization and reintegration on behalf of 11 armed groups that are part of the "Mouvements de l'inclusivité".⁹⁶ In a decision dated 4 March 2020, announced in person to the leaders of the armed groups the day before, Lieutenant-Colonel Malick Yero Dicko, Singaré's replacement, allocated 15 positions for regional offices for disarmament, demobilization and reintegration, attributing three seats to CPA, led by Mohamed Ousmane, three to CMFPR-2, led by Ibrahim Kantao,⁹⁷ and one seat to each of the remaining nine armed groups of the "inclusivité".

70. Lieutenant-Colonel Dicko's decision follows the dissolution of CME, announced by means of a communiqué published on 29 February 2020 by FPA, MPSA and MSA-Chamanamas. Since then, all the armed groups part of the "inclusivité", with the exception of CPA, led by Mohamed Ousmane, and CMFPR-2, constituted on 4 May 2020 a new platform called the Coordination des mouvements de l'inclusivité, coordinated by the leader of MPSA, Boubacar Sidigh Ould Taleb.

⁹⁷ CMFPR-2, led by Ibrahim Abba Kantao and Younoussa Touré, is still formally part of CMA.

71. Information received by the Panel in April and May 2020 indicates that the Malian State security service continued to actively support Mohamed Ousmane in maintaining his leadership over CPA, following a split announced by means of a communication dated 23 April 2020 from the self-declared new Secretary-General of CPA, Mohamed Ould Ahmed, addressed to the Minister of Social Cohesion, Peace and National Reconciliation. According to the Panel, such support and assistance fall under the designation criteria specified in paragraph 8 of Security Council resolution 2374 (2017).

IV. Organized crime

A. Trafficking of narcotic drugs

72. The most regular and stable narcotics flow through Mali remains cannabis resin, or hashish, from Morocco, moving via Mauritania and Mali through the Niger to Libya. There is also mention, however, of hashish convoys taking cocaine along, since the supply routes of both narcotics products converge in Mali and take the same direction. The Panel received two precise testimonies from informed Government sources concerning an intercept in Tabankort of 1 ton of cocaine, which was flown by a CASA CN-235 transport aircraft of the Malian army from Gao to Bamako during the weekend of 11 and 12 May 2019⁹⁸ and is allegedly in the custody of the Malian security service.

73. Below the general direction of trade, various trade routes exist at the micro level, which can shift, blend or diverge, depending on either opportunistic decisions or long-standing relationships between ever-competing criminal networks that are usually associated with signatory armed groups.

74. Information surfaces when competition turns into violence or when authorities manage to seize volumes, bearing in mind that seizures are often a consequence of friction between previously cooperating elements. Further details regarding the seizure in Niamey in June 2018 are a good illustration (see paras. 77–87 below). In terms of violence, the Panel's midterm report alluded to increased confrontations in Mali along the western border with Mauritania and decreased confrontations along the eastern border with the Niger, probably resulting from a rapprochement between segments of MAA-Plateforme from Gao and CMA in Kidal.

75. Confrontations along the western border have not reduced and recent confrontations over a hashish convoy crossing into the Niger on 9 June 2020 indicates that coordination between the erstwhile opposed networks has already fallen apart (see paras. 102–103 below). Drug interceptions have followed a pattern whereby parties from Kidal prey on convoys of MAA-Plateforme- and MAA-CMA-associated criminal networks that move south of the region, from Lerneb and Bou-Djébéha via Ber to Gao region and across the border with the Niger in Ménaka region. The intensified southern movement may have been a reaction to the rapprochement that was intended to pull traffic northwards.

⁹⁸ Correspondence with confidential sources in Gao on 16 May 2019 and in Bamako on 10 June 2020.

76. Violent confrontations could amount to a ceasefire violation, but in very few cases is there clear indication of the involvement of more than one signatory group.⁹⁹ In addition, violent confrontations over shipments also emerge from within a single network and associated armed group. Whether or not it amounts to ceasefire violations, the involvement of signatories in drug trafficking is a threat to the implementation of the Agreement, in which parties commit to jointly fight organized crime.

Drug seizures: updates and recent cases

Niamey, April–June 2018

77. On 29 April 2020, the High Court of Niamey sentenced individuals arrested for their involvement in international drug trafficking in April 2018, ¹⁰⁰ as detailed in the Panel's previous reports (see S/2018/581, paras. 126–129, S/2019/137, paras. 65–68, and S/2019/636, paras. 106–108). A 10-ton hashish shipment had been transported from Morocco in cooling trucks via Mauritania, Mali and Burkina Faso to the Niger. The larger part of the shipment, about 7 tons, was taken from a warehouse in Niamey on the night of 12–13 April 2018 and was alleged to have made its way to Libya. Two months after the arrests, on 13 June 2018, Niger authorities confiscated 2.5 tons that were hidden in the same warehouse.

78. Mohamed Ben Kazou Moulati,¹⁰¹ an associate of sanctioned individual Mohamed Ben Ahmed Mahri (MLi.007), known as Rouggy, was sentenced to five years in prison, as were his companions, Mohamed Mellouki and Khalef Elmehri, both of Algerian nationality, with whom he had arrived in Niamey on 16 April 2018. Rouggy had arranged their travel and visas though his connections in the Malian embassy in Algiers, declaring that they were working for the company Tilemsi Distribution (see S/2020/158/Rev.1, paras. 87–88) and had to travel to Gao via Niamey. Mohamed Lamine Sekouni, who had come to meet them at the airport, was acquitted owing to a procedural error.

79. Abdelali Boutafala, a Moroccan national, was sentenced to three years in prison. He had arrived a day prior, together with Ali Boulouha, who escaped arrest and returned to Morocco, where he is being monitored by the police but has not been arrested. The two Moroccans had been followed to the warehouse. The tenant of the warehouse, Almahdi Hamaou, of Nigerien nationality, was sentenced to four years in prison, as was Ahmed Mohamed Lackcherie, alias Banjar, who is believed to have diverted part of the shipment at the expense of Rouggy and Moulati. Banjar had fled to Algeria, but was arrested in Tamanrasset on 16 December 2018 and was extradited to the Niger on 1 March 2019.¹⁰²

80. The Moroccans and Algerians reportedly both came to Niamey to resolve an apparent conflict over the shipment between Banjar and Rouggy, with the Moroccans on the side of Banjar and the Algerians on the side of Rouggy.

81. The highest sentence, in absentia, of 20 years imprisonment and a fine of 10 million CFA francs, befell on Mamane Korey Chana, like Banjar of Nigerien nationality and involved in diversion of drugs. Chana is from the Tebu community that straddles the border between the Niger and Libya, and is instrumental for Algerian and Malian Arabs to transport shipments across the border. It is likely that ⁹⁹ During the reporting period, the Technical Commission on Security did not instruct the joint observation and verification teams to conduct any missions to investigate ceasefire violations in relation to incidents over alleged drug convoys (see paras. 93–96 and 101–103 below).

¹⁰⁰ Correspondence from government official of the Niger, 16 June 2020.

¹⁰¹ Moulati has dual nationality (Malian and Algerian).

¹⁰² Member State information, 23 March 2020.

Rouggy intended to get around Tebu networks, and conflict over the shipment arose partly as a result.

82. Besides Rouggy, another protagonist missing from among those sentenced is Dina Taouling, a Nigerien Arab, whose role is key to understanding the operation. Taouling owned part of the shipment, as did Rouggy and Moulati.¹⁰³ He seems to be on Banjar's side, as he hosted the latter when in hiding in Algeria, yet he was also Rouggy's correspondent in Algeria, who sent Elmehri and Mellouki to Niamey.

83. It is important to note that Taouling¹⁰⁴ was involved, together with Chana,¹⁰⁵ in an earlier similar intercept in July 2016 of 2 tons of cannabis and a large sum of money belonging to Sherif Ould Taher, a long-time associate of Rouggy,¹⁰⁶ both from the Arab Lemhar fraction. Taouling and Mohamed Hassane, a Tebu residing in Agadez also involved in the intercept, were taken hostage and were brought to Mali so as to force their patron to pay ransom in return for stolen goods.¹⁰⁷ Both Rouggy and Banjar claim they played a role in liberating the hostages.¹⁰⁸ It is more likely that Rouggy kept the hostages, considering his proximity to Ould Tahar, while Banjar enabled their release, considering that Banjar could later rely on Taouling when fleeing to Algeria.

84. Since his release in 2017, Hassane has suffered from mental illness because of alleged harsh treatment.¹⁰⁹ Banjar's relationship with Rouggy is likely have soured as a result. According to a first-hand witness involved in the operation, tribal relationships and cycles of vengeance were at the root of the problem, because of which people were imprisoned.¹¹⁰ Indeed, diversion by Banjar may have been revenge for what was considered a disproportionate reaction of the Lehmar Arab network, including Rouggy, operating under Ould Tahar in July 2016.

85. However, Ould Tahar does not appear in the events of 2018. According to several sources, Rouggy has been trying to establish a separate trading chain for himself, generating reprisal action, while Ould Tahar managed not to antagonize Nigerien counterparts.

86. Another name that emerged from the investigation is Ghoumour Itouwa Bidika,¹¹¹ a former rebel leader during the Tuareg insurrection in the Niger from 2007 to 2009.¹¹² Bidika was in contact with Almahadi Hamaou, the tenant of the warehouse where drugs were found, responsible for onward transport to Libya.¹¹³ Bidika was a close associate of the late drug baron and former Member of Parliament, Cherif Ould Abedine, and before the latter's death in February 2016 was responsible for Curiously, in September 2019, Ghoumour Bidika was one of the interlocutors during a mission of French parliamentarians in northern Niger. transporting Abedine's drug shipments in northern Niger.¹¹⁴ His death caused drug trafficking networks in the Niger to fracture and compete with each other, despite several attempts to reunite them under new leadership.

87. The Panel has not been able to identify individuals or entities involved in the drug supply chain upstream and downstream from Mali and the Niger in connection with the case, other than retrieving several first names and telephone numbers of people in Morocco, Libya, Tunisia and Egypt. The Panel requested information from the Government of Morocco about the identity of hashish suppliers through those telephone numbers. In the reply, it was mentioned that one of the telephone numbers belonged to a company in Salé,¹¹⁵ but the name was withheld because the information was generated within the framework of an international request for judicial cooperation. Indeed, the Niger had requested the information, but judicial authorities in the Niger told the Panel that they had never received an answer from Morocco.

Guerguerat, April 2019

88. In its previous final report (S/2019/636, paras. 112–113), the Panel referred to 12 tons of hashish seized by Moroccan authorities at Guerguerat from a truck. The freight, which consisted of plastics beneath which drugs were hidden, was destined for a company called Sanfo Commerce et Service (SCS) in Bamako. SCS was the same name of the company that Rouggy's accomplice in the cocaine trafficking operation in Bissau in March 2019, Sidi Ahmed Mohamed, had intended to establish there. The Panel inspected, in coordination with competent authorities, the declared premises of SCS in Bamako to find that the stated address was the residence of someone not involved in any business activity. SCS is likely to be another shell company used to cover drug trafficking operations.

89. The freight had been exported by the transport company Impargo Morocco, registered in Casablanca, Morocco, on 11 May 2017.¹¹⁶ The person having registered the company appeared to have committed identity fraud.¹¹⁷

Western Sahara, July 2019

90. With regard to a reported hashish seizure in Western Sahara in July 2019, ¹¹⁸ the Panel learned that the convoy was destined to be taken forward by Badi Ould Oumar, from the Oualad-Ich fraction of Bérabiche Arabs, from Likrakar, north of Timbuktu. Ould Oumar reportedly negotiated the release of one of the prisoners, presumably his cousin.¹¹⁹ Badi Ould Oumar is associated with MAA-Plateforme. The seizure was reportedly a reprisal by Sahraouian drug traffickers for increased convoy payments levied by MAA-Plateforme-associated armed elements to take drugs forward. Ould Oumar was also involved in a violent clash over drugs in mid-November 2019 (see paras. 93–96 below).

Mauritania, April 2020

91. In an operation carried out on 10 and 11 April 2020, Mauritanian armed forces intercepted and destroyed two vehicles that had come from Western Sahara, moving south-east in the direction of the border with Mali. During the operation, a vehicle that was supposed to meet the two vehicles came from the border with Mali. Seven people were apprehended and 700 kilograms of drugs, supposedly hashish, were confiscated, while approximately 1,800 kilograms were burned in the destruction of the vehicles.

92. Among those arrested coming from Western Sahara was a certain Hdaidi, believed to be the convoy leader. Among those arrested coming from Mali was Oudha Ould Saad (phonetic spelling), whose uncle, Hammi Ould Moctar or Elmoctar, is among a handful of Malian businessmen, including Guigoz (see para. 94 below), controlling drug trafficking from Mauritania through Timbuktu and Taoudenni regions. Hammi Ould Moctar, who resides in Fassalé, Mauritania, is also known as Hammi Alkwari, the last name referring to a locality near Nampala where he was born. It is not yet clear to the Panel on which armed group he relies.

Violent confrontations linked to narcotics trafficking

Bou-Djébéha, Taoudenni region

93. On 11 November 2019, a particularly violent confrontation occurred near Bou-Djébéha, 150 kilometres north of Timbuktu. Eight wounded people were brought to Timbuktu hospital, and one died while being transferred to Bamako. The wounded were MAA-Plateforme elements from Likrakar, 10 kilometres north-east of Timbuktu town, who claimed to have been on a patrol to inspect one of their posts.¹²⁰ Assailants had come from a north-eastern direction and included Kounta Arabs and Tuaregs from Kidal. Multiple sources attest that the clash involved Badi Ould Oumar, on the MAA-Plateforme side, who reportedly used the patrol to secure his drug transport of approximately 1 ton of hashish.

94. On 14 November, a second attack hit a combined hashish and cocaine convoy north of Bou-Djébéha belonging to Hussein Ould Ghaname or Khanam, alias Guigoz. Again, assailants reportedly came from Kidal region, but were mostly composed of Idnan Tuaregs. Guigoz relies on military backing from MAA-CMA in Ber, notably Hussein Ould Al Moctar, known as colonel Goulam (see S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 81).

95. Nani Ould Alhousseini and his cousin, Abdellahi Ould Lahmein, who are prominent residents of Bou-Djébéha, were and are claimed to still be involved in drug trafficking in association with Guigoz and Oumar Ould Ahmed (see para. 57 above).¹²¹ Bou-Djébéha is CMA-oriented, while the Organization of Al-Qaida in the Islamic Maghreb (QDe.014) continues to have influence there.

96. As the Panel highlighted in its midterm report, Guigoz' convoys in 2018 were attributed to men acting on behalf of Settar Ould Ahmed Hairi (S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 81), who was assassinated on 8 July 2018 along with Mohammed Ould Hinnou, alias Jidou (S/2019/636, para. 78). Jidou was also from the Oualad Ich fraction and close to Badi Ould Oumar, supposedly his cousin.

Lerneb, Timbuku region

97. In its previous reports, the Panel referred to tensions in Lerneb, which led to an attack on MAA-Plateforme units on 25 July 2019, constituting a ceasefire violation (S/2019/636, para. 72, and S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 9). Lerneb is an important entry point for trafficking between Mauritania and Mali (S/2018/581, para. 123), with narcotics being hidden among regular merchandise goods, rather than moving in specialized convoys. The military positions that Tormouz militia, backed by MAA-CMA, attacked are controlled by Colonel Mahmoud Ould Jeyd, the MAA-Plateforme base commander in Lerneb of the Oulad Ich fraction.¹²² The attack had been carried out as a result of taxation of the local population and businesses (S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 9),¹²³ but another factor that played into the confrontation was that Ould Jeyd used the checkpoint to claim high fees, particularly on some CMA-affiliated drug traders, who would have expected more favourable terms if the Tormouz were in control.¹²⁴

98. Following a first mediation proposed by Houka Houka Ag Alhousseini (MLi.005) immediately after the clash, two additional attempts have been undertaken to solve the dispute over Lerneb, in Nouakchott on 20 October 2019, supported by the United Nations and the Government of Mali, and in Bou-Djébéha on 28 January 2020. All initiatives thus far have failed to reach a lasting solution, reportedly because of Ould Jeyd's strong opposition. On both occasions, prominent persons pushing for and involved in negotiations have an interest in trade and trafficking through Lerneb, leading to bias. The initiative in Mauritania, presided by the Minister of the Interior and Decentralization, was undertaken in the presence of Ahmed Ould Bah, known as Hmeida or Ahmeïda, an adviser of the former President of Mauritania, Mohamed Ould Abdel Aziz.¹²⁵ Hmeida's interests are served by Ould Jeyd, who also enjoys political support from Mohamed Mahmoud Ould Sidi, Member of Parliament for Bassikounou,¹²⁶ and his brother, Hanena Ould Sidi, former Force Commander of the Joint Force of the Group of Five for the Sahel and current Minister of Defence of Mauritania.

99. The negotiation attempt in Bou-Djébéha was organized mainly by MAA-CMA. It was hosted by village chief Lahmein Ould Alhousseini, father of Abdelahi Ould Lahmein, and initiated by the newly-established council of Bérabiche fractions over which Oumar Ould Ahmed (Oulad Idriss fraction) was then presiding. It also involved the first Vice-President of the Taoudenni interim authority, Dina Ould Daya, who like Ould Lahmein and Oumar Ould Ahmed is reputed for his involvement in drug trafficking¹²⁷ via the CMA-MAA base of Ber.

100. The Bou-Djébéha mediation was led by Houka Houka Ag Alhousseini, who has been personally recommended as qadi by Alghabass Ag Intalla to Lahmein Ould Alhousseini. In his written decision dated 28 January 2020, Houka Houka suggested the replacement of Ould Jeyd as chief of the MAA-Plateforme base in Lerneb.¹²⁸ However, strong Mauritanian backing prevented his removal, despite the belief of the Tourmouz that failure to implement the qadi's decision would lead to reprisals from Al-Qaida.¹²⁹ At the same time, some CMA-associated traffickers – notably Guigoz, Oumar Ould Ahmed and Nani Ould Alhousseini – have invested in Ould Jeyd to assure access. Moreover, they would not want to antagonize Mauritanian suppliers and authorities who work with and support Ould Jeyd, noting that Guigoz' shipments had been seized on multiple occasions in 2019 following the installation of a new Government in June of that year (S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 81).¹³⁰

Arikchache, Taoudenni region

101. Another violent clash between narcotics traffickers reportedly happened on 1 February 2020 in Arikchache, 200 kilometres north-west of Timbuktu on the Mauritanian border.¹³¹ Arikchache is a crossing point historically used for drug transports. Among the three victims killed was reportedly a brother of Ahmoudou Ag Asriw (MLi.001).

Tamalat, Mali-Niger border

102. On 9 June 2020, a hashish convoy belonging to businessmen of the Lemhar Arab community and escorted by GATIA elements was attacked at a meeting point on the border between Mali and the Niger north of Tamalat.¹³² Drugs were supposed to be escorted further by elements under the order of Ghoumour Bidika (see para. 86 above) and Kalakoua Amoumen.¹³³ Assailants reportedly came from Tassara and Kidal, took possession of the drugs and continued to In-Tuduq inside the Niger, where reinforcements brought in by Bidika and Kalakoua counter-attacked. The death toll of attacks would have been as high as 20, leading to speculation that the convoy may have contained higher-value drugs.¹³⁴

103. The convoy passed the border in the same area through which a drug convoy passed on 21 April 2019, as mentioned in the Panel's midterm (S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 84). That convoy was stopped by MSA-D elements but continued.

B. Trafficking in persons and the smuggling of migrants

104. The Panel provided an update on migrants flows in annex VII to its midterm report. In terms of updates on individuals involved in trafficking, the Panel learned that Baye Coulibaly (S/2018/581, para. 141, and S/2019/137, para. 69), who used to recruit migrants on behalf of GATIA, now recruits fighters for JNIM.¹³⁵ Numbers reached up to 30 per month before the gold boom (see paras. 120–126 below) and dwindled afterwards as young men were drawn to the gold mines.

105. In addition to commanding Ganda Koy militia who ransom travellers on a checkpoint on the road from Gao to Ansongo (S/2019/636, para. 123), Coulibaly maintains a criminal gang involved in robberies, murders, extortion and abductions. When Coulibaly was summoned to the police station to answer for a crime involving his men, he came with his weapon and threatened officers.¹³⁶ Baye Coulibaly is untouchable in Gao and able to stir havoc at any moment, which the new Police Commissioner in question had not realized.

106. Coulibaly's impunity also derives from the fact that he enjoys protection from local as well as high-level connections in the Malian security and defence forces. He is in business with certain police officers, bribing them to release arrested migrants whom he then exploits. Moreover, Coulibaly has two brothers in the Malian armed forces, with the grade of Lieutenant Colonel and Colonel, while his eldest brother, Alkebir Coulibaly, is Police Commissioner in Koulikoro.¹³⁷ His connections within the Malian security service allowed him to pre-empt his arrest in February 2018, along with other human traffickers.

C. Irregular cigarette trade and trafficking

Update on American Legend

107. In its previous reports, the Panel had focused its investigations on the trafficking of cigarettes of the brand American Legend (S/2019/137, paras. 70–83). After the Panel revealed the destabilizing effect of illegal introduction of this brand of cigarettes in Mali via Burkina Faso and the Niger, its producer, Karelia Tobacco in Greece, halted its exports to Soburex in Ouagadougou. Consequently, stocks of American Legend held by Soburex in the border town of Markoye seem to have been largely emptied. Whereas in 2019, the Panel witnessed American Legend being transported between Ansongo and Gao and found cartons sold in Gao, in 2020 the brand was no longer available in Gao.

108. The Panel, however, did find packets of American Legend in Timbuktu, but they were hard to come by and had probably been diverted from exports to Mauritania. Considering its rarity – traffickers in Mali are usually paid in kind, because of which illicit brands flood the market – it does not seem that Timbuktu serves as a hub for onward trafficking to Algeria, as Gao did in the past.

Other brands currently trafficked

109. Notwithstanding the exit of American Legend from the Sahel, the risk of illicit cigarette trade financing armed groups in Mali and the wider Sahel region has not gone away. The Panel obtained documentary evidence showing other brands – notably Yes, ORIS, Business Royals and Gold Seal – exported mainly from the United Arab Emirates entering via the port of Cotonou, Benin, and transiting through Burkina Faso and the Niger in contravention of relevant transit and re-export legislation and blatantly trafficked further down the chain.

110. While there have not been recent seizures of the above-mentioned brands of cigarettes in Mali, the brands ORIS, Business Royals and Gold Seal were reportedly trafficked through Mali in previous years.¹³⁸ In 2017, some cigarette exports from the United Arab Emirates to Togo, Benin and Ghana were destined for Algeria via Mali,¹³⁹ according to an international study, with the authors considering it plausible that the above-mentioned brands, apart from Yes, flow from Mali to Algeria.¹⁴⁰

111. A series of inspections in Burkina Faso and Benin in 2019 showcase how two companies – SIRI Produits et Compagnie (SPC) in Burkina Faso and Petacynic in Burkina Faso and the Niger – control and coordinate the import of the four brands. The representative of Petacynic Niger had previously introduced American Legend illegally in Mali (S/2019/137, para. 72) and currently offers ORIS to his client in Timbuktu. Acting as a criminal network, those companies and associated individuals not only evade taxes but also knowingly import cigarettes that have a high probability of fuelling conflict in Mali and elsewhere in the region.

112. A series of inspections in Burkina Faso and Benin in 2019 show how companies move unlabelled or wrongly labelled cigarettes across the Sahel region, by declaring them to be in transit or to be re-exported, including to fictitious entities, with customs authorities in both countries turning a blind eye.

April 2019 inspection of a truck in Burkina Faso

113. On 16 April 2019, the regional directorate of commerce intercepted a truck transporting 1,840 boxes of cigarettes, mostly Gold Seal,¹⁴¹ on its way from the border between Benin and Burkina Faso to Ouagadougou. The Gold Seal cigarettes carried the label "vente en Côte d'Ivoire", but were destined for SPC in Burkina Faso.¹⁴² Arriving in Burkina Faso, the consignee of the goods was changed on the transit declaration to a person in Côte d'Ivoire, but Burkina Faso was kept as the destination country. SPC is authorized in Burkina Faso to import and distribute the brand ORIS.¹⁴³ The brand Gold Seal is not authorized for import in Burkina Faso. No document could be shown justifying the supposed importer in Côte d'Ivoire being permitted to import cigarettes. Furthermore, goods were not under customs escort, as is required for cigarettes in transit.

114. The Ministry of Trade, Industry and Handicrafts established multiple infractions of relevant pieces of legislation, notably the 2017 decree on cigarette imports and transit that requires labelling, customs escort and authorizations to import.¹⁴⁴ Irregularities should have compelled customs authorities to turn back the truck if really in transit to Côte d'Ivoire, or to confiscate and destroy its content if intended for consumption in Burkina Faso. The latter seemed to be the case, considering the illogical routing – via Benin and Burkina Faso – of cigarettes if truly meant for consumption in Côte d'Ivoire. Although recognizing irregularities, Burkinabé customs authorities did neither and released the goods they accepted to be in transit. SPC refrained from answering the Panel's questions about the company's legal compliance.

Further tracing of trucks in Burkina Faso in March and April 2019

115. The above-mentioned case does not stand alone. The Panel obtained information about seven shipping containers entering Cotonou – four with Gold Seal and three with Yes – being transferred and mixed in March and early April 2019 on 12 trucks in the Beninese border town of Porga and in Nadjagou on the Burkina Faso side.¹⁴⁵ Transit documents showed the same freight forwarder, Tonasse et Fils in Cotonou, Benin. Gold Seal was again destined for SPC in Burkina Faso, while Yes was destined for Petacynic, either in Burkina Faso or Niamey. Yes is a non-authorized brand in the Niger and is no longer authorized in Burkina Faso.¹⁴⁶ Petacynic Burkina Faso is authorized to import and distribute another brand, Platinum Seven. Petacynic Niger has not obtained authorization to import and distribute Yes.¹⁴⁷ Petacynic Burkina Faso refrained from answering the Panel's questions about the company's legal compliance.

116. Yes packets in one of the containers either showed no legal notices, or legal notices for Togo, again in contravention of the 2017 decree on cigarette transit and imports in Burkina Faso.¹⁴⁸ All trucks moved at night well after the curfew hours and none under customs escort. They either went in the direction of Ouagadougou or to Kompienga, to exit Burkina Faso and enter Togo. The latter would have been the case for four trucks containing Yes and two trucks containing both brands, as they were seen again in Sinkassé in the morning after they left Niadibou at night. Sinkassé is in the extreme north-west of Togo, at the borders with Burkina Faso and Ghana. From there, merchandise entered northern Ghana, to be unloaded in a warehouse in Widana and dispatched illegally by motorbike to locations in Ghana, Togo and Burkina Faso. It is unclear whether the six other trucks took the same itinerary or whether any moved straight to Ouagadougou, like the one intercepted on 16 April 2019.

September and October 2019 inspections in the port of Cotonou

117. Two inspections of containers in the port of Cotonou later in September and October 2019 further substantiate the movement of unlabelled or wrongly labelled cigarettes destined to the above-identified companies in Burkina Faso and the Niger. Apart from nine shipping containers of Yes to Petacynic in Burkina Faso and two containers of Gold Seal and one of ORIS to SPC in Burkina Faso, the customs unit for the control of containers at the port of Cotonou inspected four containers of Business Royals.¹⁴⁹ For the latter, it was unclear whether they were destined for Petacynic in Burkina Faso or the Niger.¹⁵⁰ For all 11 containers, the same freight forwarder was used, whose representative declared that goods would be re-exported to countries in the subregion. According to an interministerial decree from 2016 on cigarette transits,¹⁵¹ Benin authorities should have turned back the shipments found to not contain the necessary legal notices. However, as in Burkina Faso, Benin authorities also eventually released the shipments.

¹⁴⁵ Confidential reports.

¹⁴⁶ The company Aventus Burkina held the authorization before, but the brand was not confirmed in a note dated 25 January 2019 by the Directorate General for Economic Control and Fraud Supression, with reference DGCRF/019-0005/MCIA/SG/DGRF, which fixes the list of tobacco products in line with Burkinabé rules.

¹⁵¹ Benin, interministerial decree No. 016/MISPC/MEFPD/MS/MIC/DC/SGM/DG-CILAS/SA, 4 February 2016.

118. The Panel has been made aware of another 10 shipping containers entering Cotonou in November and December 2019 and destined for Petacynic in Niamey, containing unlabelled or wrongly labelled Business Royals and ORIS or Gold Seal cigarettes,¹⁵² with the risk of entering illicit circulation in the subregion. The representative of Petacynic, who had previously been involved in inserting American Legend illegally in Mali, denied importing any of the shipments. Also, the Niger customs authorities did not record the shipments having entered the territory.¹⁵³ In Niamey, the Panel retrieved ORIS packets with legal notices for Côte d'Ivoire and with a general health warning in Arabic, but not specific to any country. It is likely that cigarettes destined for Petacynic Niger are dispatched from northern Ghana or Burkina Faso, using smaller means of transport, and then smuggled into the Niger. In addition, by putting the Niger as the destination, Petacynic tries to get around increased vigilance by Benin customs authorities regarding cigarettes destined for Burkina Faso, as stated in a circular note dated 25 October 2019.¹⁵⁴

Loss of State revenues

119. The 28 shipping containers brought to the attention of the Panel for the year 2019 represent a small fragment, just over 10 per cent, of the overall number of 245 containers of cigarettes introduced via Cotonou, Lomé and Tema, and estimated to enter into illicit circulation in the wider Sahel region in 2018.¹⁵⁵ In 2018, the fraudulent cigarette trade entering those ports represented a turnover of 63 billion CFA francs ($107 million) and a loss of revenue of 23 billion CFA francs ($39 million) to Governments in the region.¹⁵⁶ The adoption of stringent regulations on the cigarette trade in all implicated countries (apart from Ghana) in 2016 and 2017 should have helped to repress fraudulent trade, but Governments, particularly in Benin and Burkina Faso, despite some authorities' efforts to inspect goods and detect irregularities, have failed to apply their respective regulations, putting no real pressure on importers to distribute cigarettes legally and pay taxes due. Besides the aforementioned inspections, open source data make reference to some seizures and the destruction of cigarettes, but these are incidental and small in volume.¹⁵⁷ As a result of weak enforcement, the volume of fraudulent cigarette trade having entered via the aforementioned ports was estimated to have increased by more than 40 per cent in 2019.158

D. Artisanal gold

120. Informal artisanal gold production, which has been emerging first in Kidal region in 2018 and now in the Gourma area, is not a criminal activity. However, there is a risk that crimes are committed in the pursuit of wealth and criminal networks involving armed group members engage in the sector, which can have a negative impact on the implementation of the Agreement.

¹⁵² Data for six shipping containers did not specify the brand but, they were exported by Oriental General Trading in Jabel Ali, United Arab Emirates, which commercializes both brands, supplying SPC in Burkina Faso with both brands.

Kidal region

121. Artisanal gold exploitation, which took off around Kidal in 2018, has spread north towards Tessalit, the mines of In Darset and Egharghar being the centre of gravity of exploitation today, attracting thousands of workers. In absence of the State, CMA governs gold mining around Kidal, with a prominent role played by Attayoub Ag Intalla, the President of civil society in Kidal. CMA imposes regulations on the use of chemicals and took a recent decision to delocalize processing plants from the town so as to reduce environmental damage.¹⁵⁹ While CMA does not levy direct taxes on gold, it does tax general commerce mining activity in Kidal town and nearby sites in Kidal cercle, which finance its security operations in general, and Operation "Acharouchou" in particular, as previously reported by the Panel (S/2019/636, paras. 86–87).

122. However, CMA security governance does not extend to mining areas further afield, such as those towards Tessalit, which, according to local authorities, are under the influence of JNIM.¹⁶⁰ Nevertheless, CMA controls processing sites in Tessalit town. This mutually beneficial coexistence has prevented major conflict from erupting over gold mine sites and processing areas.

Gourma

123. Since March 2020, artisanal gold mining has also taken off in the Gourma area, which straddles Timbuktu and Gao regions south of the Niger river. The first sites were reported around Intahaka and Doro, halfway on the road between Gao and Gossi, and around Marsi, 20 kilometres east of I-n-Tillit. More recently, sites have emerged across Gourma-Rharous cercle (Timbuktu region), as well as in Ansongo and Bourem cercles (Gao region). Mining activity has attracted foreigners, including from the Sudan, Nigeria, Chad, Algeria and even Pakistan, and unidentified armed elements, creating serious security concerns, particularly in the town of Gao. Mining in the Gourma area is at a similar scale to Kidal, attracting thousands of workers.¹⁶¹

124. Doro is one of the last strongholds of GATIA in the Gourma area (S/2019/636,para. 104). While a representative claims the GATIA controls mining sites, reports suggest the growing influence of JNIM elements based in the vicinity, under the former MUJAO officer, Amadou Moussa. Moussa takes a central position in JNIM combat against Islamic State in the Greater Sahara in the Gourma area, including in a southern direction towards I-n-Tillit and Marsi. This may be partly economically motivated, as Islamic State in the Greater Sahara also held interest in the mining sites there. Marsi has a CMA base, whose elements have been alleged to tax mining activities. CMA claims the taxation is being conducted by uncontrolled rogue elements.¹⁶² A signatory armed group representative confirmed coexistence in taxation between terrorists and signatory armed groups, namely CMA, in Marsi.¹⁶³ Intahaka has a Malian armed forces post, but it has not undertaken any effort to secure the mine sites. GATIA and CMA provide protection, for which they levy fees. In Timbuktu region, CMA and Plateforme established a joint commission in June 2020 to secure and supervise mining activities in Gourma-Rharous in a context of terrorist threat.164

Production, trade and evacuation routes

125. Figures for artisanal gold production in Mali are inaccurate – anywhere between 5 and 20 tons per year are produced by some 200,000 workers – and even more so for newly discovered sites in Kidal, let alone the Gourma area. Considering the influx of people, production in the north could be several tons per year already, according to gold trade specialists.

126. The orientation of trade is varied. Owing to deplorable roads connecting mining areas in the north with Bamako, traders also bring production to the Niger, Burkina Faso and Algeria, or use available air services. MINUSMA is aware of the risk of its air assets in Kidal facilitating the movement of gold to Bamako and has put in place a formal interdiction with subsequent controls.¹⁶⁵ The Panel spoke with several trade insiders, who affirmed having either used themselves or knowing of non-United Nations individuals who had used MINUSMA flights to transport gold to Bamako.

E. Asset freeze and travel ban implementation

127. In its midterm report, the Panel discussed national legal provisions for the implementation of the asset freeze (S/2020/158/Rev.1, para. 45). Pending incorporation of the provisions of the sanctions regime established pursuant to Security Council resolution 2374 (2017) in domestic law in Mali, the Panel informed banks in Mali of sanctions designations and enquired about possible accounts held by listed individuals. No replies have yet been forthcoming.

128. Since the publication of its midterm report, the Panel has been made aware of one travel ban violation by Mohamed Ben Ahmed Mahri, alias Rouggy, whose representative told the Panel he had travelled to Nouackchott and back on the weekend of 14 and 15 March 2020. The representative told the Panel that Rouggy wanted to be transparent about his international travels. Mauritania did not reply to the Panel's request to verify this travel.

V. Violations of international humanitarian and human rights law

A. Obstructions to the delivery of humanitarian assistance to Mali

129. For the period under review, access to humanitarian aid remains dire, as attacks on aid and aid workers continue with impunity. Many parties to the conflict have committed violations of international law, be it the armed groups, the militia, the terrorists, the jihadists or the national armed forces.

130. National and international humanitarian aid providers are subject to numerous attacks. Aid workers are abducted and aid is looted by armed groups and other unidentified individuals. The vehicles carrying aid supplies are stolen, as well as the materials and other property belonging to the humanitarian aid agencies.¹⁶⁶

131. As at 18 June 2020, non-governmental organizations (NGOs) operating in Mali have been subject to 106 incidents: 10 in Bamako and Koulikoro (south), 41 in Ségou and Mopti (centre) 55 in Timbuktu, Gao, Ménaka and Kidal (north). Historically, Ménaka is the most affected region, where, since 2015, around 133 incidents were reported, compared to 100 incidents in Kidal region and 81 incidents in Bamako.¹⁶⁷ On 24 December 2019, NGOs in Ménaka indefinitely suspended the provision of aid in Ménaka until security improved.¹⁶⁸ Their activities resumed in March 2020 following the decrease in criminality during the months of January and February 2020.

¹⁶⁵ Confidential note, 12 June 2020.

¹⁶⁶ Meeting with confidential source in Bamako, 13 November 2019.

132. Concerning the follow-up of the impact of sanctions based on humanitarian criteria, Ahmed Ag Albachar (MLi.004) told the Panel that he had not been active in the humanitarian domain for two years,¹⁶⁹ refuting the grounds for his designation. Since the dismantlement of the Regional Office for the Administration and Management of Kidal in April 2019 and Albachar's designation in July 2019, CMA has imposed itself less on the NGO community in Kidal, improving the overall humanitarian access.¹⁷⁰

133. Further illustrative incidents of obstruction of humanitarian assistance are described in annex XV.

B. Violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law

134. Human rights violations, such as killings, extrajudicial killings, forced disappearances, abductions, arbitrary arrests and detentions, are recurrent. Genderbased violence and conflict-related sexual violence are being committed by armed groups, terrorists and members of the communities, as well as national forces (see paras. 139–145 below).¹⁷¹ Under international humanitarian law, parties to conflicts must make a distinction between combatants and civilians and livelihoods necessary to the survival of the populations. Thus, pillaging livelihoods is a breach of international humanitarian law.

135. Attacks on livelihoods are used as a weapon of war and consist of the stealing and destruction of property and the burning down of dwellings, harvests and stored livelihoods by armed groups, terrorists, jihadists and militia. Taking advantage of the intercommunal conflicts, attacks by jihadists and terrorists on livelihoods aim at creating food shortages and weakening the food security system, with the goal of subduing the population and securing resources to finance criminal activities. Furthermore, attacks lead to the abandonment of the fields and displacements that weigh on host communities and the displaced themselves.

136. The Panel did not get the opportunity to investigate the grave violations of children's rights. However, numerous reports state that children continue to be affected by the conflict through the violation of their rights, as some parties continue to recruit and use children as combatants (see A/74/845-S/2020/525).

137. The closure of schools has made children more vulnerable and likely to be subject to recruitment and/or use as child soldiers. At the time of writing the present report, it is believed that 129 children are among the armed groups. Those children are victims of 745 violations of their rights.¹⁷²

138. Migrants transiting through Malian territory are also subject to violations of their rights; they are subject to extortion and physical and mental abuses, including by traffickers associated with signatory armed groups, as the Panel described in detail in its previous reports (S/2018/581, paras. 138–143, and S/2019/636, paras. 123–124).

Gender-based and sexual violence

139. Sexual violence is at a high level in Mali. Between 2012 and 2019, 20,311 cases of gender-based violence were reported in Mali. Of the victims, 98 per cent were female, among whom 36 per cent were under 18 years old.¹⁷³ The number of cases of gender-based violence keeps growing owing to the conflict situation and the context of general insecurity that breeds human rights violations, with the weakness of the justice system and the rule of law. Impunity that prevails fuels gender-based violence and sexual violence.

140. From January to November 2019, 4,157 cases of gender-based violence were reported in Mali: 97 per cent of the survivors were female, among whom 50 per cent were under 18 years old; 3 per cent were male, and 2 per cent were boys under 18 years old. Data collected shows that 47 per cent of the cases reported were cases of sexual violence: 21 per cent of those cases were rape with penetration, 23 per cent were physical aggressions, 14 per cent were denial of resources, 9 per cent were psychological violence and 7 per cent were early marriages.¹⁷⁴

141. Between January and October 2019, 1,708 cases of sexual violence have been reported in the north and centre of Mali, and 734 cases, or 43 per cent, have been perpetrated by armed actors. National defence and security actors make up 8 per cent of cases of sexual violence, while 36 per cent of cases have been committed by armed groups. Owing to the general environment of insecurity and context of impunity owing to weak security institutions, some cases of rape and sexual violence have been perpetrated by members of the communities as well.¹⁷⁵

142. Fearing for their security and stigmatization, kidnapped women who have been victims of rape and sexual violence, upon their release, do not report it. The same stigmatization and culture are also some of the causes for which instances of rape and sexual violence are still underreported. Furthermore, in some regions, gender-based violence and reproductive rights activities are prohibited by Islamic armed groups. Thus, the cases of gender-based violence are not properly reported.

143. An NGO working on gender-based and sexual violence has for the year 2018 registered seven cases of rape with penetration. For the year 2019, eight cases of rape were reported. Other violence, such as physical aggression, forced marriage, and psychological and emotional violence, are also committed against women.¹⁷⁶

144. Cases of sexual violence and rape have been reported from the "closed houses" (maisons closes) in Gao, which are prostitution motels.¹⁷⁷ Migrant women are particularly vulnerable to being exploited as prostitutes.

145. Further details on incidents of gender-based and sexual violence are contained in annex XVI.

Intercommunal violence

146. Intercommunal violence is recurrent in central Mali. Between 1 January and 21 June 2020, the Human Rights and Protection Division of MINUSMA reported 83 clashes between the Fulani and Dogon communities in Mopti region, resulting in 292

¹⁷³ Confidential report, 23 April 2020.

deaths.¹⁷⁸ The intercommunity clashes have become a breeding ground for manipulation and use by armed groups to install and reinforce their groups. From January to June 2020, the armed groups were the perpetrators of 105 cases of human rights violations, with 67 killings in Mopti region alone.¹⁷⁹

147. For example, on 5 May 2020, it was reported that a group of dozos attacked the Fulani village of Djongue Ouro around Djenné town, killing many of them.¹⁸⁰ The attack seems to be in retaliation for the attack conducted by the Fulani against the dozo village of Djongué Saré, Mopti region, on 2 May 2020.

C. Situation of internally displaced persons and refugees

148. Fights among armed groups, terrorists and other militia and their constant raids on villages have led to the destruction of villages and huge population displacements. The overall insecurity has led to massive displacements of the populations, with women and children making up the largest number of displaced. As at 30 March 2020, Mali has around 250,000 internally displaced persons,¹⁸¹ up from nearly 200,000 as at 31 October 2019.¹⁸²

149. As at 31 March 2020, there were 138,537 Malian refugees in neighbouring Burkina Faso, the Niger and Mauritania.¹⁸³ In some areas, aid destined for the vulnerable populations is being looted, property belonging to humanitarian organizations is being stolen by armed groups and bandits and there are recurrent intercommunity clashes weakening the general security situation and undermining the efforts and support for the protection of civilians. Finally, the exactions committed by the national security and defence forces have undermined the trust of the populations towards them.

D. Attacks on national and international forces

150. The Malian armed forces, international forces present in Mali and MINUSMA forces have been subject to attacks. Attacks on civilians, international forces and national forces constitute a breach of international law. In Mali, around 130 soldiers have died since the Mission was established.

151. While some improvised explosive devices were the result of armed conflicts, others were allegedly set up by armed groups in order to harm, which constitutes a violation of international law. Improvised explosive devices have been deadly to forces and civilians in Mali. From 2013 to 2020, there has been a total of 959 incidents related to improvised explosive devices.¹⁸⁴ In 2020, there have been a total of 82 such incidents, with 52 explosions and 30 found and cleared. As at 31 May 2020, Mopti has had 40 incidents, compared with 113 in 2019. From 2013 to 2020, there have been 1,692 victims of improvised explosive devices in Mali, 32 per cent of them civilians. The remaining victims are national and international military forces. MINUSMA peacekeepers account for 22 per cent of the victims.¹⁸⁵

154. The Panel also recommends that the Security Council include in its next resolution concerning Mali the following language:

Dr Albert Barume Coordinator of the Panel of Experts on Mali of the UN Security Council

Kidal, 22 May 2020

Response to the midterm report of the Panel of Experts on Mali of the UN Security Council

Dear Dr Barume,

The CMA welcomes the mission of the Panel of Experts, established by resolution 2374 (2017) and extended by resolution 2484 (2019). We continue to support the Panel's mandate to "name those responsible for or complicit in activities or policies that pose a threat to peace, security or stability in Mali or those having taken part in such activities or policies directly or indirectly". And we are committed to engaging constructively with the Panel, the UN Security Council and its Committees to ensure a full and swift implementation of the Agreement on Peace and Reconciliation in Mali.

It is regrettable therefore that the Panel's latest midterm report (28 Feb 2020) once again presents significant inconsistencies, misunderstanding and inaccuracies. We are seriously concerned that such a report could be used to inform the decisions of the Security Council. We have a number of concerns:

(i) Methodology

The CMA was not consulted on the incidents that we list below. We were given no opportunity to respond to accusations or verify facts. If such an approach were taken in a legal trial, it would be a scandal. And yet the Security Council is expected to make decisions about international peace and security on the basis of accusations of parties that have had no opportunity to respond. In future, it must be the case that all parties are consulted by the Panel and given an opportunity to respond to specific accusations;

(ii) Lack of focus on decentralisation and development

The Panel's mandate clearly states that it shall provide information on actions taken that "obstruct, or obstruct by prolonged delay, or that threaten the implementation of the Agreement", and to assist with information that helps identify individuals responsible for obstruction. Development and decentralisation are critical components of the Peace Agreement. There have been significant delays in implementation, which represent a major obstacle to the implementation of the Agreement. Yet the Panel of Experts report fails to adequately reflect this or the Government's failure to transfer the resources and financial assets for the functioning of the Interim Authorities. And it fails to reflect the deadlock around the constitutional reform process and measures to make the North Development Zone fully operational. These are clear obstructions to the implementation of the Agreement is redeployment of the reconstituted army, without parallel progress on development and inclusion in the democratic process, the credibility and legitimacy of the whole Peace Agreement will be at risk.

Furthermore, it is worth reiterating that an inclusive democratic process is yet to be achieved in Mali. Indeed, despite the clear provisions of the Peace Agreement that stipulate that there should be an increase in representation of the people of the Azawad in the Malian institutions, the recent parliamentary elections have failed to do so. The Azawad regions of Taoudenni and Ménaka were not included in the election with the consequence that - once again - the people of the Azawad are under-represented. Despite this, in April the CMA decided to collaborate with the Government of Mali to ensure a smooth holding of parliamentary elections for the overall benefit of peace and security in Mali - another example of our constructive approach to peace.

(iii) False accusations and factual errors

The report accuses the CMA of "conducting a territorial expansion strategy at the expense of other armed groups in breach of ART9 of ceasefire agreement". The Panel cites as evidence a report and imply strongly in their wording that the CMA is responsible for the killing of the chief military staff of the MSA-D, Sahidima Ag Mahgani, in the Ménaka region. But the CMA was not responsible. No evidence has been found to prove CMA's responsibility. And - as the Panel finally acknowledges after several paragraphs - the members of the joint observation and verification team established to look into the incident did not establish CMA culpability. Moreover, the Panel of Experts has not taken into account the report produced by the CMA on this specific issue.

The Panel also cites as evidence a mission led by the mayor of Talataye, Mohamed Assaleh Ishak (alias Salah Ag Ahmed) to kill four MSA-D combatants and three civilians in Agarnadanamos while also attempting to kill MSA-D regional commander, Moussa Ag Alhadi. But Mayor Mohamed Assaleh Ishak could not have been leading such mission as he was in an official meeting with the Head of MINUSMA's Gao Office (see annex attached] The Panel considers the CMA's reconciliation mission to Ménaka organised by CMA President, Bilal Ag Acherif, as an example of CMA territorial expansion strategy despite the fact that the mission was supported by local authorities as well as MINUSMA and other international actors on the ground to promote peace and reconciliation among local partners.

The CMA also takes this opportunity to formally deny all accusations of CMA collusion with jihadist groups and responsibility for crimes committed by an individual or group of individuals claiming allegiance to the CMA. We are particularly concerned by the serious consequences that such allegations have not only on the trust between the signatory parties but also on the CMA's capacity to continue its cooperation with the Panel of Experts. The CMA makes every effort against of all acts that can bring harm to the civil population of the Azawad, including the fight against terrorism. The CMA has already lost over 300 of its combatants as part of its efforts to fight terrorism. We shouldn't be carrying this burden alone. The Peace Agreement is clear that the fight against terrorism should involve the reconstituted army and the creation of special units to fight terrorism and transnational crime. The onus must now be on the Government of Mali to stop delaying security arrangements with respect to the first deployments to Kidal, Gao, Timbuktu and Ménaka so that CMA forces can engage in anti-terror operations as part of the reconstituted army.

The Panel of Experts report points to unsubstantiated and unverified claims. We urge the Panel to conduct thorough, participatory and credible verification efforts on the serious allegations made against the CMA in its midterm report in order to establish an objective truth while respecting the values of transparency, fairness and neutrality. And to ensure that the Panel's work meets the high standard of professionalism and accuracy that should be required for expert reports intended to inform the decision-making of the Council.

We remain committed to accountability and justice for all Malians and we hope that the Panel of Experts can make a contribution to securing that goal.

Please accept the assurances of my highest consideration.

ELEMENTS DE REPONSE AU POINT 17 DU RAPPORT DES EXPERTS DU CONSEIL DE SECURITE DES NATIONS UNIES SUR LE MALI :

En réponse au point 17 du rapport des experts sur le Mali qui accuse le maire de Talataye, Mohamed Assaleh Ishak dit Salah Ag Ahmad d'être à la tête d'un convoi de plusieurs camionnettes pour s'attaquer au MSA-D à Agarnadamos, il y a lieu d'apporter ces quelques précisions.

L'attaque en question a eu un lundi 24 juin 2019 entre 14 et 15 heures. (Voir rapport EMOV-GAO du 29 juin 2019 annexé au 38ème CR de la réunion de la CTS). Image 3

Le même jour, Mohamed Assaleh ISHAK dit Salah Ag Ahmad, maire de Talataye, à la tête d'une forte délégation composée des membres de la CMA, était dans les locaux de la MINUSMA à Gao de 9h à 13h. Il a tenu une réunion avec le chef du bureau, le Commandant Secteur Est et autres responsable de la mission : (Voir liste de la délégation, images et captures de vidéo tournées au cours de la réunion). Image 2

Les échanges au cours de cette réunion ont porté sur le risque d'affrontement entre la CMA et le MSA-D, car ayant reçu l'alerte selon laquelle une colonne de véhicules du MSA-D a quitté Indelimane pour se rendre à Talataye en vue de déloger la CMA de cette localité qui est sous son contrôle depuis les accords locaux de Tinfadimata. (Voir accords annexes au 38ème CR de la réunion de la CTS).

Une heure et demie après la réunion, l'affrontement en question a eu lieu à Agarnadamos (Talataye), alors que le maire, Mohamed Assaleh Ishak et sa délégation étaient en réunion avec des responsables de OCHA à Gao en vue de faciliter l'accès de la zone de Talataye aux humanitaires.

Après la réunion avec OCHA, et après avoir eu la confirmation et quelques détails sur l'incident, le maire a pris le soin de saisir la Minusma- Gao à travers son chef de bureau pour lui informer de l'attaque. (Voir échanges de SMS entre le maire et le chef de bureau). Image 1

Le même jour, vers 18h (3h après l'attaque de Agarnadamos), en compagnie de l'officier de liaison de la CMA à Gao, monsieur Ibrahim Ag ATTAYOUB, le maire de Talataye et sa délégation, à bord de quatre camionnettes et une Toyota car, marque V8, ont quitté Gao pour passer la nuit dans la zone de EMNAGHIL (40 km nord de Gao sur la route de Kidal), en vue d'éviter d'éventuelles escarmouches avec le MSA-D à l'intérieur de la ville de Gao.

Le lendemain, 25 juin 2019, la délégation a pris la route de Talataye pour y rester et attendre la rencontre avec l'EMOV GAO qui a eu lieu, le 29 juin 2019. (Voir rapport EMOV). Image 3.

Il est important de préciser que le maire de Talataye, Mohamed Assaleh Ishak a séjourné à Gao du 21 au 24 juin 2019 pour officiellement prendre part à la mise en place de la coordination régionale de la CMA à Gao.

Le 22 juin 2019, en marge de la réunion de la mise en place du bureau de la CMA, le maire a rencontré un des collaborateurs du chef de bureau de la Minusma-Gao, en la personne de monsieur Katadata Alhousseini Malga, pour parler de la situation à Talataye et préparer la rencontre du 24 avec le chef de bureau. Le lendemain 23 juin 2019, il a ensuite rencontré au super camp de la Minusma, Mr. Jean Kabirigi de la Minusma (Section analyse et statistique) pour toujours parler de la situation sécuritaire à Talataye.

Le même jour, le maire, Mohamed Assaleh a rencontré la direction de l'ONG EQUAL-ACCES INTER-NATIONAL (Voix de la paix) pour discuter du report ou non d'une rencontre intercommunautaire, prévue à Talataye le 25 juin 2019. (Voir mail d'annulation de la rencontre par le directeur de l'ONG pour cause des tensions entre le MSA-D et la CMA dans la zone de Talataye). Image 4

NB. L'arrivée de la délégation du maire de Talataye à Gao le 21 juin 2019 à 16h30 et son départ le 24 juin 2019 à 18h sont tous consignés dans les archives du poste de la gendarmerie malienne situé sur la route Gao-Bourem car les gendarmes.

1. Sur le lieu de l'attaque

Pour le MSA-D, l'attaque a eu lieu dans le village d'AGARNARANOS, d'où les portes chiles quand la CMA afirme que les conduits se sont dérouiés en dehors et qu'accune perte civile al'est à déplarer. Le seul point d'accord en l'heure de l'attaque, c'est-àdire 15heures, le fundi 24 juin 2019.

 Sar les annes de responsabilité de chaque proper aux termes de l'accord de octave le fey.

Les deux parties estiment avoir le droit de patrouiller dans le village d'AGANNOANOS. Ce qui manifestement pous problème parce que la CNA considère que le village fait partie de TALATAVE, danc sous sa responsabilité, alors que le MSA 0 prétend que le village appartient à INDELIMARE étant donné que sa population est d'obédence MSA-D.

RECONMANDATIONS

Au regard de ce qui précède,

- La MINISMA doit intensifier ses patrooilles dans la zone, y accruitre sa présence à travers les activités CANC afin de rassurer les populations.
- Les forces régaliences devraient marquer leur prévence également alle de ne pas donner aux populations le sentiment d'abandun pour ne pas faire le lit des groupes tennoristes.
- Enfin, une relecture de l'accord de cesser le feu est à envisager avec l'implication de haute hiérarchie à tout le moins afin d'éviter de noaveau accrochages.
