Situation in South Sudan

Report of the Secretary-General

I. Introduction

1. The present report is submitted pursuant to Security Council resolution 2567 (2021), by which the Council extended the mandate of the United Nations Mission in South Sudan (UNMISS) to 15 March 2022 and requested the Secretary-General to report on the implementation of the Mission’s mandate every 90 days. The report covers political and security developments, the humanitarian and human rights situation, and progress towards the implementation of the Mission’s mandate from 1 June to 31 August 2021.

II. Political and economic developments

2. On 9 July, South Sudan observed the tenth anniversary of its independence. In his address to the nation, the President of South Sudan, Salva Kiir, noted the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement on the Resolution of the Conflict in the Republic of South Sudan as a priority, highlighted the progress achieved thus far and affirmed the commitment of the Revitalized Transitional Government of National Unity to graduating the Necessary Unified Forces.

Reconstituted parliament

3. On 4 July, Mr. Kiir issued decrees appointing new members to the Council of States. The new Council is composed of 92 members, of whom 25 are women. The President also revised the list of appointees for the reconstituted Transitional National Legislative Assembly, replacing 35 previously appointed members of the Sudan People’s Liberation Movement (SPLM). On 30 July, Mr. Kiir revoked the decree appointing members of the Other Political Parties coalition to the reconstituted Assembly following disagreements over representation. On 4 August, all leaders of the coalition, with the exception of Peter Mayen, reached an agreement on the distribution of their allotted legislative seats.

4. On 23 July, the SPLM leadership nominated Jemma Nunu Kumba as the Speaker of the reconstituted Transitional National Legislative Assembly, Parmena Awerial Aluong as the Second Deputy Speaker and Mary Ayen Majok as the Deputy Speaker of the Council of States. On 27 July, the Sudan People’s Liberation Movement-Army in Opposition (SPLM/A-IO) nominated Nathaniel Oyet Pierino as the First Deputy Speaker of the reconstituted Assembly and Deng Deng Akon as the Speaker of the Council. The South Sudan Opposition Alliance (SSOA) selected Lieutenant General Bapiny Monytuil as the Second Deputy Speaker of the Council of States. The swearing-in ceremony of the parliamentarians took place on 2 August. On 30 August, the President presided over the inauguration of the reconstituted Assembly and the Council. In his address, he stated that, despite the delays, the reconstitution of the Parliament was proof that the parties were invested in implementing the revitalized peace agreement.

Internal disputes in the Sudan People’s Liberation Movement-Army in Opposition

5. On 21 June, the President appointed Simon Gatwech Dual, the Chief of General Staff of SPLM/A-IO, as the Presidential Adviser on peace. On 22 June, the Chairperson of SPLM/A-IO, Riek Machar, relieved Mr. Gatwech Dual of his position in SPLM/A-IO. On 24 June, Mr. Gatwech Dual rejected his appointment as Presidential Adviser, stating that he had not been consulted about the position before it was announced.

6. On 3 August, a group of SPLM/A-IO military leaders announced, through the Kitgwang Declaration, that they had ousted Mr. Machar as the Chairman and Commander-in-Chief of SPLM/A-IO and replaced him with Mr. Gatwech Dual. On 4 August, following a meeting chaired by Mr. Machar, the SPLM/A-IO Political Bureau rejected the declaration, characterizing it as an attempt by peace spoilers and defectors. On 7 August, forces of Mr. Machar and Mr. Gatwech Dual clashed in Gezan and Megeinis in Upper Nile, followed by additional clashes in the area in the weeks that followed. On 8 August, a group of SPLM/A-IO leaders and some members of the Political Bureau, the National Liberation Council and other cadres, led by the SPLM/A-IO Deputy Chairperson, Henry Dilang Odwar, announced their support for the group of military leaders who had issued the Kitgwang Declaration. On 13 August, the Political Bureau, chaired by Machar, cancelled the group’s membership for allegedly undermining the objectives and policies of SPLM/A-IO.

7. On 10 August, the President convened a meeting of the presidency in Juba to discuss the situation in SPLM/A-IO. The President called for the cessation of hostilities between the rival factions and the observance of a reasonable distance to safeguard against further violence. He also directed the security supervision mechanism and the Ceasefire Transitional Security Arrangements Monitoring and Verification Mechanism to visit Megeinis in order to maintain calm and prevent any further violence. The presidency called for the immediate unification of the command of the forces and directed the First Vice-President, Mr. Machar, and the Vice-President, Hussein Abdelbagi, to present their list of nominees for the unified forces to the President.

Implementation of the Revitalized Agreement

8. On 23 June, Mr. Machar launched a two-day symposium on federalism in the permanent constitution-making process in South Sudan under the theme “Towards a legitimate and effective federal constitution framework”.

9. On 30 June, Mr. Machar and the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Affairs, Reuben Madol, launched the consultative process for the establishment of the Commission for Truth, Reconciliation and Healing in line with chapter V of the Revitalized Agreement. The event marked the reconstitution of an inclusive technical committee, composed of government officials, signatories to the Revitalized Agreement and civil society representatives, who are tasked with drafting the Commission legislation based on inclusive, participatory and transparent public consultations.
10. On 15 July, the Ministry of Peace Building, with support from the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), held a dialogue under the theme “Towards the development of a South Sudan peacebuilding strategic forum”. During the dialogue, the peacebuilding strategic framework of South Sudan was discussed and developed.

Peace process developments

11. From 15 to 18 July, the peace talks led by the Community of Sant’Egidio between the Revitalized Transitional Government of National Unity and the South Sudan United Front/Army and the Real SPLM faction of the South Sudan Opposition Movements Alliance (SSOMA) took place in Rome. The Real SPLM faction of SSOMA recommitted to its integration into the Ceasefire Transitional Security Arrangements Monitoring and Verification Mechanism and presented its nominees to the body. The parties also outlined a road map for moving the talks forward over the coming months. On 20 July, the Minister of Presidential Affairs, Barnaba Marial, informed the public of efforts to bring the National Salvation Front (NAS), the other SSOMA faction, led by Thomas Cirillo, back to the peace talks.

12. On 17 August, the President strongly condemned an attack on the Juba-Nimule road in a statement and blamed holdout groups for the deaths of civilians, including two nuns, in the attack. On 30 August, the President said that the Revitalized Transitional Government of National Unity had decided to pause the Sant’Egidio-led talks with SSOMA, stating that talks would only resume after SSOMA ceased hostilities.

Political developments

13. On 15 July, the Minister of Public Service and leader of the South Sudan National Movement for Change, Joseph Bakosoro, and some members of his party rejoined SPLM. Mr. Bakosoro did not resign from his post, to which he was appointed on an SSOA ticket, despite calls for him to resign by SSOA members.

14. The President issued several decrees by which he relieved and appointed high-ranking government officials. On 1 June, the President relieved the Chief Administrators of the Pibor Administrative Area, Joshua Konyi, and of the Ruweng Administrative Area, William Chol Awalith, of their posts. They were replaced by Lokoli Amu Bullen and Peter Dau, respectively. On 8 June, the President relieved the Governor of Lakes State, Major General Makur Kulang Liei, and the Chief of Military Intelligence of the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces, Major General Rin Tueny Mabor Deng, of their posts. He appointed the latter as Governor of Lakes State and Lieutenant General Marshal Stephen Babanen as Chief of Military Intelligence. On 28 July, the President relieved the Deputy Governor of Western Bahr el-Ghazal State of his post and appointed Zachariah Joseph Garang in his place. He also appointed Mary Nawai Martin as Minister for Parliamentary Affairs.

15. On 30 August, the planned protests called by the Peoples’ Coalition for Civil Action did not manifest as public demonstrations. The leaders of the Coalition, however, declared victory on the basis of what they deemed an overreaction by the Government.

Regional engagements and developments

16. On 24 June, the Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD) held the seventy-second extraordinary meeting of its Council of Ministers. In its communiqué, the Council of Ministers welcomed the progress on the implementation of chapters I and II of the Revitalized Agreement while noting the challenges related to transitional security arrangements. On 9 August, IGAD held the seventy-third extraordinary meeting of its Council of Ministers to discuss the SPLM/A-IO rupture. In its communiqué, the Council noted with concern the unfolding political crisis and splintering of SPLM/A-IO, which entailed significant implications for the ongoing peace process in South Sudan as well as for the wider region. The Council called upon the opposition factions to immediately and unconditionally cease hostilities and seek peaceful solutions through dialogue. The Council tasked the Executive Secretary of IGAD, Workneh Gebeyehu, and the IGAD Special Envoy, Ismail Wais, to support the Chair of IGAD in mediating the dispute within SPLM/A-IO. It also requested them to develop a road map setting clear timelines on subsequent engagements with parties to resolve the current disagreements and detailing the key areas impeding progress in the implementation of transitional security arrangements.

17. The Executive Secretary of IGAD and the IGAD Special Envoy visited Juba from 11 to 13 August. In his capacity as Chair of IGAD, the Prime Minister of the Sudan, Abdalla Hamdok, visited Juba from 19 to 20 August to further engage partners and stakeholders.

Economic situation

18. Economic reforms continued to improve macroeconomic stability and public finances and to mitigate the impact of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic. The depreciation of the South Sudanese pound was reversed in mid-August, following a convergence of the exchange rate between the Central Bank and the parallel market. This is expected to help control inflation and to positively affect food security for households.

19. On 7 July, the South Sudan Council of Ministers approved the resource envelope and sector ceiling for the 2021–2022 budget estimated at around $1.6 billion, which is 5 per cent lower than the previous year’s budget that was not approved. However, the budget still presents a significant funding gap of about 29 per cent, which will be challenging to bridge. Nevertheless, salaries for civil servants and organized forces have doubled, and allocations to social sectors such as health and education, as well as infrastructure, have increased. The new budget is expected to be approved in September.

III. Security situation

20. Upper Nile, Warrap, Lakes, Central Equatoria and Western Equatoria were particularly affected by subnational and localized violence during the reporting period, resulting in displacement, increased protection risks and rights violations, as well as diminished humanitarian access. Jonglei saw intermittent and low-level cattle-related violence, while the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces and NAS engaged in skirmishes in the Equatorias. United Nations agencies and international non-governmental organizations (NGOs) faced violence and criminality, leading to a few casualties and the destruction of property.

Greater Upper Nile region

21. Upper Nile continued to see political and ethnic contestations, intra-Nuer conflicts and socioeconomic tensions. The SPLM/A-IO infighting that commenced on 7 August in Kitgwang resulted in between 45 and 64 casualties.

22. The issue of land rights and related administrative delineation flared up in Malakal on 6 June, when the Dinka Padang protested after government officials referred to Malakal as the headquarters of Makal County during a COVID-19 vaccination campaign. Intra-Nuer violence escalated in the southern Upper Nile region when Nuer sub-clans fought on 3 and 4 July and on 6 August in Ulang County. In Nassir, on 20 June, the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces burned down an SPLM/A-IO garrison in Ketbek to avenge the killing of one Defence Forces soldier by the Nuer. In Maban, the presence of SPLM/A-IO forces at the Liang cantonment site raised concerns of looting, illegal taxation and the intimidation and harassment of civilians. Tensions arising from livelihood pressures also resurfaced in oil-producing Melut County, where the local population staged a demonstration on 14 and 15 June demanding better pay, the provision of services and employment opportunities.

23. In Jonglei, multiple instances of isolated cattle-related attacks and crimes, such as abduction and attempted robbery, allegedly carried out by the Murle, continued in the Nuer-inhabited areas of Yuai, Uror and Akobo. Intra-Murle tensions in the Pibor Administrative Area resulted in fighting on 29 June and 9 July that resulted in the deaths of 23 people.

24. Inter- and intrastate conflicts remained a major security threat in Unity. Multiple incidents of cattle raiding and of looting involving armed young people occurred in Koch and Leer Counties throughout June and July. The sub-clans in Guit County clashed in Kilo 30 village on 7 July, killing a 13-year-old boy. Concurrently, interstate conflicts continued along the border areas between Unity and Warrap and between southern Unity and eastern Lakes. At least two incidents of cattle raiding occurred in June, and another in August in Twic, Warrap, implicating armed young people from Mayom. Armed young people from Panyijiar County in Unity also conducted a spate of attacks against the border communities of Lakes.

Greater Equatoria region

25. Sporadic clashes between the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces and NAS exacerbated insecurity and the human rights situation in Central and Western Equatoria. Both parties fought on at least seven occasions. On 10 June, NAS overran the Defence Forces base at Loka West in Lainya County, killing 10 Defence Forces soldiers. On 21 July, NAS attacked the Defence Forces barracks in Mundu boma, Lainya County, and attacked a base in Kimba, Mororo County, the following day, killing three Defence Forces soldiers. On 27 July, NAS attacked the Defence Forces barracks in Rasolo, Western Equatoria, killing two Defence Forces soldiers. On 3 August, NAS attacked the Defence Forces barracks in Logo, located along the Yei-Maridi road. The two forces also clashed on 13 August, in Gilogne village, southwest of Juba, while on the same day, a NAS ambush was also reported in which three Defence Forces vehicles were targeted along the Yei-Maridi road, en route to Goli.

26. Western Equatoria experienced a resurgence in inter-ethnic tensions between the Azande and Balanda. Incidents occurred in Tambura, Nagero and areas bordering Western Bahr el-Ghazal, implicating armed elements of both groups. Homes belonging to the Balanda in Source Yubu were burned down on 4 June by unidentified armed elements; the SPLM/A-IO base in Namatina was attacked on 18 June, allegedly by Azande armed elements loyal to Major General James Nando based in Source Yubu; an Azande boma chief was killed in Nagero on 27 June by unidentified armed men; and the residence of the SPLM/A-IO Commander of Namatina was attacked on 16 July, allegedly by armed persons loyal to Nando. Intercommunal violence in Tambura on 20 and 21 August led to the killing of dozens of people, the burning of houses and the displacement of thousands of households. More than 3,000 displaced persons seeking protection have arrived next to the UNMISS temporary operating base in Tambura.

27. In Eastern Equatoria, economic and livelihood challenges, including a lack of employment opportunities, continued to fuel grievances. The frustrations of local young people were directed at United Nations agencies and NGOs, with the Monyomiji community issuing a press statement on 14 June, objecting to United Nations and NGO recruitment practices and demanding that they hire local young people. The situation escalated on 30 June, when a group of about 30 Monyomiji youth demonstrated outside the UNMISS Torit field office, calling upon all United Nations agencies and NGOs operating in the area to “evacuate within 72 hours”.
Separately, economically motivated attacks, including road ambushes and robberies, continued to be targeted at civilians and humanitarians in Torit.

Greater Bahr el-Ghazal region

28. Recurring intercommunal conflict and cattle raiding occurred in Tonj North, Tonj South and Tonj East. From 7 to 9 July, clashes occurred between the Paliang/Luanyjang (Tonj East) and the Marial Lou (Tonj North) over the attempted theft of two head of cattle, resulting in the deaths of 25 civilians and injuries to a further 23 people. On 15 and 16 August, following cattle-related incidents, intercommunal violence between Luanyjang, Lou Paher and Thiik communities in Tonj East left about 35 people dead. Cattle-related conflict between the Thiik and Luanyjang communities also continued in Tonj East.

29. Violence in Lakes among different subsections and clans occurred in Rumbek East, Rumbek North, Cueibet and Yirol West. On 12 June, around 20 people were killed during the fighting between the Thuyic and Gony and their respective allies at the Aguok cattle camp in Rumbek East County. On 21 June, another 23 people were killed when armed Pakam youth (from Rumbek North) and Ruop and Nyang youth (from Rumbek Centre) attacked the Maker Diam cattle camp in Cueibet County.

30. Tensions in Western Bahr el-Ghazal were exacerbated as a result of the SPLM/A-IO split and internal leadership dispute. On 11 June, clashes were reported between two SPLM/A-IO commanders in a village west of Wau, in the Greater Baggari region.

IV. Humanitarian situation

31. High levels of food insecurity and violence, coupled with flooding and the pandemic, continued to affect vulnerable populations in South Sudan. An estimated 7.2 million people, 60 per cent of the population, faced high levels of acute food insecurity between April and July, including 108,000 people in six counties facing catastrophic hunger. Malnutrition levels among children under five years of age are above emergency thresholds in many parts of the country. Some 1.4 million children and 480,000 pregnant or lactating women are estimated to be acutely malnourished, including 313,391 children estimated to be suffering from severe acute malnutrition.
In addition to the 1,710,966 people previously displaced, more than 137,000 individuals were displaced as a result of localized violence and flooding between 1 June and 31 August. Humanitarian organizations scaled up operations across the food- and nutrition-insecure areas.

32. Fighting between armed forces, subnational violence and cattle raids in regions including Central and Western Equatoria, Jonglei, the Pibor Administrative Area and Upper Nile uprooted people and disrupted humanitarian activities. Since June, recurring fighting in Tambura County, Western Equatoria, has displaced some 58,800 people to eight locations. In early July, fighting in Tonj North, Warrap, displaced around 10,000 people (including 3,000 women and 2,500 children), with hundreds of shelters burned down and health centres, schools and churches vandalized. During the fighting in Tonj North, a United Nations agency warehouse, in which critical food items were stored, was looted. Recurring subnational violence in Uror County, Jonglei, and in Pibor County, Pibor Administrative Area, affected the delivery of critical humanitarian assistance to highly food-insecure people. In Upper Nile, fighting between the alleged rival military factions of the SPLM/A-IO in Megeinis/Kitgwang in Manyo County, Upper Nile, displaced some 2,000 people.

33. Humanitarian access remains a challenge, with the resurgence of armed conflict in parts of Central and Western Equatoria, Jonglei and the Pibor Administrative Area. Humanitarian workers and assets continued to be targeted and attacked. The looting of humanitarian supplies had a significant impact on operations in the conflict-affected areas, where people are already facing high levels of food insecurity and malnutrition. In Tambura, health facilities were looted and destroyed during subnational violence. Since the beginning of 2021, more than 911 metric tons of food items and nutritional supplements have been looted or destroyed during subnational violence. Those supplies could have supported more than 41,000 food-insecure people for up to four months and provided life-saving nutritional supplements for over 2,500 children under five years of age suffering from severe acute malnutrition.

34. Between 1 June and 31 August, 164 incidents related to humanitarian access were reported, including 22 ambushes and 25 lootings. A total of 61 aid workers were also relocated from Ayod, Magwi, Morobo, Fangak, Nagero and Tambura. In June, two humanitarian workers were killed when a clearly marked humanitarian convoy was ambushed in Yirol West, Lakes State. With the onset of the rainy season, roads have become impassable, with some locations cut off entirely and humanitarian organizations having to rely on air transport in order to deliver aid. Increases in the number of riverine checkpoints and in cases of extortion were reported. In early August, armed young people from New Fangak twice attacked an international NGO compound in the area, severely beating the guard on site and threatening staff members who were residing there.

35. Between June and August, flooding affected an estimated 380,000 people across the country, with Jonglei and Unity most affected. Following rapid needs assessments, emergency assistance has been provided to 140,000 people in the flood-affected areas, with more planned. Communities in the affected areas moved to higher grounds and required emergency assistance. Humanitarian organizations have provided food assistance; health and nutrition supplies and services; water, sanitation and hygiene services; protection services; and fishing kits for livelihood support.

V. Implementation of the Mission’s mandated tasks

A. Supporting the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement and the peace process

37. My Special Representative and his deputy continued to exercise their good offices, engaging the parties and stakeholders to address critical outstanding issues and maintain progress on the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement. My Special Representative engaged with the President of South Sudan, Salva Kiir, and other senior officials of the Revitalized Transitional Government of National Unity, as well as with the President of Uganda, Yoweri Museveni, and the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of Kenya and Uganda to promote the timely implementation of the Agreement.

38. My Special Representative also briefed the seventy-third extraordinary session of the Council of Ministers of IGAD. Following a separate engagement with the...
IGAD Executive Secretary in Juba, UNMISS, IGAD, the reconstituted Joint Monitoring and Evaluation Commission and the Ceasefire Transitional Security Arrangements Monitoring and Verification Mechanism issued a joint statement reiterating their partnership and recommitment to coordinating support to the parties in order to help resolve challenges related to transitional security arrangements.

39. State-level executive leadership retreats took place on 8 and 9 June in Western Equatoria, on 24 and 25 June in Eastern Equatoria and from 15 to 17 July in Warrap under the theme “People first, building trust for united and inclusive governments”. The Revitalized Agreement was disseminated at the retreats, which served as an opportunity for the state governments to share experiences, to better understand their roles and to foster state-level synergies for unity governments.

40. Following the workshop of the reconstituted Joint Monitoring and Evaluation Commission in May, at which the permanent constitution-making process formally commenced, UNMISS convened a series of key stakeholder consultations in support of the process. On 22 June, UNMISS, UNHCR, UNDP and the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN-Women) supported consultations for internally displaced persons and refugees on the permanent constitution-making process to facilitate the involvement of representatives of refugees and internally displaced persons.

41. On 29 June, UNMISS, in partnership with UNDP and UN-Women, hosted a two-day workshop in Juba on judicial reforms and the permanent constitution-making process. The discussion was focused on the deficits, constraints and challenges facing the judiciary and on options for judicial reforms outlined in the Revitalized Agreement, including the establishment of the proposed constitutional court.

42. On 6 and 7 July, UNMISS convened a round table, chaired by Francis Deng, on governance and nation-building, to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the independence of South Sudan. Eminent civic and political leaders as well as women and youth representatives shared reflections on developments in the country’s history and thoughts on the way forward in nation-building.

43. UNMISS facilitated governors’ forums to support cooperation among the newly appointed state governments in Central Equatoria, Western Equatoria, Eastern Equatoria, Northern Bahr el-Ghazal, Western Bahr el-Ghazal and Jonglei. The forums brought members of the state executives together with local stakeholders to identify key priorities and associated redress actions. They included programmes on addressing tensions between the newly appointed leaders, as well as on leadership attributes and their responsibilities with respect to the fulfilment of the Revitalized Agreement. UNMISS also facilitated county commissioner forums in Upper Nile, Western Equatoria and Western Bahr el-Ghazal with a focus on strategic planning and leadership for county authorities and on stakeholder participation in assessing governance priorities.

44. On 15 July, UNMISS, in collaboration with the Ministry for Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation, launched a peace fellows programme aimed at increasing citizen participation in the peace process. The programme drew 35 South Sudanese young people (including 14 women) from the 10 states and administrative areas. The programme is expected to run until March 2022.

45. On 21 and 22 July, the Government of South Sudan, IGAD and UNHCR jointly organized a validation workshop entitled “Durable solutions strategy and plan of action for refugees, internally displaced persons and host communities in South Sudan”. The workshop was aimed at garnering the views of stakeholders on the finalization of a strategic approach to support the implementation of chapter III of the Revitalized Agreement.
46. UNMISS continued to enhance political participation by hosting round-table discussions on Radio Miraya concerning communal conflicts, the challenges of nation-building, the permanent constitution-making process, the participation of internally displaced persons and refugees in the permanent constitution-making process, the tenth anniversary of independence, and the reconstitution of the Transitional National Legislative Assembly and the challenges that it faces. During the reporting period, 12 discussions were held.

B. Protection of civilians and mitigating intercommunal conflict

47. The Mission responded to threats against civilians in South Sudan through the proactive deployment and robust posture of peacekeepers, engagements with military and political leaders, community-level conflict resolution activities, the provision of critical support to rule of law and justice institutions, and other programmatic activities.

48. In Tambura, Western Equatoria, UNMISS established a temporary operating base for a significant period, following incidents of intercommunal violence. The presence of UNMISS reduced tensions and enabled an inter-agency humanitarian team from Yambio to be deployed in order to conduct an assessment of the population affected and provide critical life-saving support. UNMISS also established temporary operating bases in strategic locations and hotspots such as Gumuruk and Likuangole in the Pibor Administrative Area, and Koch, in Unity State. Through patrols of long and short duration, UNMISS built the confidence of the population and enhanced trust between affected communities. Following violent clashes in Tonj East and Tonj North, UNMISS conducted three dynamic air patrols of the areas, enabling government officials to address their constituents. During the reporting period, 31 temporary operating bases were operational.

49. Concurrently, UNMISS carried out extensive grass-roots engagements, promoting dialogue and reconciliation. For instance, on 5 and 6 June, the Mission collaborated with government officials in Warrap and the Conflict Resolution and Reconciliation Commission, bringing together 35 traditional leaders, women, young people, cattle camp leaders and payam administrators from Tonj North County. In addition, the Mission conducted outreach to more than 500 cattle keepers, who committed to supporting peacebuilding efforts through assistance with recovering stolen cattle and identifying perpetrators of violence.

50. In Northern Bahr el-Ghazal, UNMISS organized post-migration conferences between Rizeigat pastoralists and the Dinka Malual host community and between Misseriya pastoralists and the Dinka host community. Similarly, UNMISS supported youth groups in Western Bahr el-Ghazal in addressing harmful cultural practices and advocated unity and peaceful coexistence. UNMISS also conducted capacity-building training to enable 43 members (including 10 women) of the local authorities from Wau, Jur River and Raja Counties to assume responsibilities related to the protection of civilians.

51. In Western Equatoria, UNMISS, together with a national NGO and faith-based leaders, delivered a three-day “community conversations” programme in Tambura town. The forum brought together more than 80 local stakeholders from Azande and Balanda ethnic groups, who assessed the drivers of conflict in the county and committed to actions to de-escalate and reconcile the two communities. UNMISS also organized radio programmes in the state, during which leaders delivered peace messages to the communities.

52. UNMISS organized a dialogue forum in Pibor, Pibor Administrative Area, between the two most conflict-affected groups, the Lango and the Kurenен. The dialogue was focused on prevailing issues between the two groups and included the participation of elders to help dissuade young people from resorting to violence.

53. In Bentiu, UNMISS assisted leaders representing internally displaced persons and the Governor of Unity State in resolving a stand-off, leading to an agreement on key issues, including the nomination of members to the community high committee on a rotational basis, the administration of the former protection of civilians site by the Relief and Rehabilitation Commission, and the resumption of patrols by the joint police unit and community watch groups. It was also agreed that SPLM/A-IO and the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces would provide security outside the camp to establish a secure environment and reduce criminality.

54. UNMISS continued to provide physical protection to internally displaced persons in the protection of civilians site in Malakal. In the internally displaced persons camps in Wau, Bor, Bentiu and Juba, UNMISS maintained regular engagements with the Relief and Rehabilitation Commission, the South Sudan National Police Service and community leaders representing internally displaced persons to sensitize them to their roles and responsibilities in fostering peaceful coexistence between communities and ensuring the physical safety of internally displaced persons, especially women and girls. UNMISS collaborated with leadership structures representing internally displaced persons and with relevant humanitarian partners to coordinate service provision and activities in the internally displaced persons sites, including by supporting regular security coordination meetings to mitigate identified security and protection risks in the sites.

55. The United Nations police recorded 53 incidents of physical violence against individuals in internally displaced persons camps (6 in Juba, 9 in Wau, 8 in Bor, 30 in Bentiu). UNMISS continued to co-locate with the South Sudan National Police Service in nine police stations and posts, conducting 1,312 joint activities to monitor human rights violations and providing on-site sensitization and training for 5,328 Police Service officers (including 723 women).

56. The United Nations police developed a handbook on crime scene management for investigators of the South Sudan National Police Service. The handbook is aimed at equipping the Police Service officers with the knowledge and skills to manage crime scenes and carry out investigations to ensure justice for victims.

57. As at 31 August, the United Nations police had conducted a total of 1,627 patrols, which included 528 confidence- and trust-building patrols, 90 short-duration patrols, 25 long-duration patrols, 48 dynamic air patrols, 425 high-visibility patrols and 509 coordinated patrols with the South Sudan National Police Service to foster a secure environment for free, voluntary, informed and dignified returns of internally displaced persons.

58. As at 31 August, the UNMISS force had conducted 61,742 patrols, including 1,528 short-duration patrols, 460 long-duration patrols, 185 dynamic air patrols and 37 riverine patrols. A total of 14,730 patrols were conducted to ensure the security of internally displaced persons camps and the remaining protection of civilians site. Some 3.5 per cent of patrols included women uniformed personnel.

59. The Mine Action Service provided education on explosive ordnance risk to 989 returnees from Ethiopia in Upper Nile, at the request of the local authorities and the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs. The Service conducted 229 explosive ordnance disposal tasks and destroyed 5,546 items of unexploded ordnance. It also destroyed a batch of bladed weapons confiscated by the United Nations police during search operations in the Bentiu internally displaced persons camp.
C. Rule of law and accountability

60. On 16 and 17 June, with support from UNMISS, the Ministry of Youth and Sports held a consultative workshop on youth-related legislation. Approximately 45 participants (including 6 women) discussed a proposal for a youth enterprise development fund, the ratification of the African Youth Charter, the draft national youth policy, the draft sports bill, and best practices on youth-related issues drawing on examples from Cuba, Kenya, Nigeria and the Sudan. In addition to familiarizing participants with those legal frameworks, the Ministry introduced the concept of a national youth service, modelled on other countries in the region, as a means to strengthen national cohesion through community service. The recommendations from the workshop will be compiled for further action by the Ministry.

61. On 21 June, the leadership of the National Prison Service of South Sudan endorsed a three-year strategic development plan to improve the ability of the Service to enhance safe and secure conditions of detention, the humane treatment of prisoners, and the accountability and professionalization of the service. The plan had been developed previously during a series of eight workshops, facilitated by UNMISS for senior Prison Service leaders, and will be presented to the Minister of the Interior for approval and implementation.

62. From 21 to 24 June, UNMISS and UNDP supported the South Sudan Law Review Commission in organizing a consultative workshop on the proposed review of the penal code. Following those consultations, the Commission will draft an amendment bill for the Ministry of Justice and Constitutional Affairs.

63. On 22 and 23 June, UNMISS organized a workshop in partnership with the Ministry of Parliamentary and Legal Affairs of Central Equatoria State and the Department of Legal Administration and Public Prosecution of the Ministry of Justice to strengthen coordination and working relationships between holders of constitutional posts and the Department. Participants learned about the mandate and role of the Ministry of Parliamentary and Legal Affairs, applicable laws on contractual obligations and combating corruption, and the need to seek the legal opinion or advice of that Ministry on legal matters.

64. On 28 and 29 June, UNMISS and the reconstituted Joint Monitoring and Evaluation Commission supported the Strategic Defence and Security Review Board, led by the Minister of Defence and Veteran Affairs, in conducting a review of a draft strategic security assessment and a security policy framework, which are deliverables under the Revitalized Agreement.

65. From 3 to 5 August, an evaluation workshop was held to prepare for future deployments of the mobile court and strengthen cooperation among local stakeholders.

66. UNMISS continued to implement the outcome of a two-year project funded by the South Sudan reconciliation, stabilization and resilience trust fund to mitigate livestock-related violence in Western Bahr el-Ghazal and Warrap. UNMISS provided logistical and technical assistance to a joint special mobile court, which brings together a statutory judge and traditional chiefs serving in an advisory function. The mobile court, which completed its full deployment on 7 July, issued over 50 arrest warrants against more than 70 suspects. It delivered six judgments, convicting four individuals (one for murder, one for murder and robbery, and two for robbery) and acquitting two individuals.

67. UNMISS also supported the establishment and proceedings of the Greater Tonj Special Court, which brings together statutory judges and traditional chiefs serving in an advisory function to address tensions at the local level, as a conduit for regional peace and stability. In June, the Court issued 15 judgments, involving 19 defendants, related to various crimes, including murder, rape, assault and robbery.

D. Creating conditions conducive to the delivery of humanitarian assistance

68. UNMISS conducted 182 long-duration patrols and 211 short-duration patrols to support the delivery of assistance and ensure the protection of humanitarian workers. It provided force protection to 60 integrated missions and conducted 41 force protection patrols in support of convoys and humanitarian partners, including NGOs.

69. UNMISS collaborated with UNHCR in extending protection and safety in Maban County to humanitarian actors who were threatened and temporarily taken hostage by refugees protesting irregular food distribution.

70. The Mine Action Service performed the survey, clearance and destruction of explosive ordnance to enable humanitarian and development activities, including the assessment of an identified site for a humanitarian hub in Ayod, Jonglei. Survey and clearance continued on the Raja-Boro-Medina road in Western Bahr el-Ghazal and the Kuerguini-Bentiu road in Unity, where two anti-tank mines were safely removed and destroyed in June. A total of 857,666 m² of land were released.

E. Monitoring and investigating human rights violations

71. UNMISS documented 179 incidents that negatively affected the human rights and protection situation, including arbitrary killings, extrajudicial executions, injuries, abductions, conflict-related sexual violence, arbitrary arrests and detention (including proxy detention), torture and ill-treatment, forced military conscription, and the looting and destruction of civilian property. The incidents resulted in at least 395 civilian casualties (297 killed and 98 injured), including at least 31 women and 21 children. Of these incidents, 91 were attributed to civil defence groups, 21 to the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces, 18 to SPLM/A-IO, 6 to NAS, 4 to the National Security Service and 2 to the South Sudan National Police Service. Attribution for 37 other incidents was pending.

72. Attacks carried out by civil defence groups remained the primary source of violence affecting local populations, accounting for 61 per cent of civilian casualties. However, a surge in violence involving conventional parties to the conflict in the Tambura area of Western Equatoria resulted in 117 civilian casualties (105 killed and 12 injured), as well as significant population displacement and the looting and destruction of civilian property.

73. In July, the Mission issued a press release articulating its concern about at least 42 extrajudicial executions in Warrap and Lakes and urging local and national officials to restore lawful measures in response to the localized violence and to investigate and prosecute those responsible for the executions. However, local officials continued to defend the use of such extrajudicial executions as a form of deterrence in the absence of rule-of-law institutions, and at least two additional extrajudicial executions were allegedly carried out following the issuance of the press release.

74. The Mission facilitated the release and the family tracing and reunification of 37 abductees (12 women, 25 children) held by members of the Murle, Dinka and Nuer communities in Jonglei and the Pibor Administrative Area following the agreement of community leaders to identify and mobilize abductees as part of peace dialogues. The project, which is led by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights with the support of the South Sudan reconciliation, stabilization and resilience trust fund, has led to the release of 100 abductees since its launch earlier in 2021.

75. UNMISS conducted 92 capacity-building sessions for a total of 3,047 national stakeholders (of whom 1,127 were women), including members of the security forces, state officials, community and traditional leaders, members of women’s and youth organizations, and other civil society representatives.

76. UNMISS also carried out eight human rights-related due diligence policy risk assessments before travel and material assistance was provided to non-United Nations security forces in support of the implementation of the peace process.

77. UNMISS conducted 92 capacity-building sessions for a total of 3,047 national stakeholders (of whom 1,127 were women), including members of the security forces, state officials, community and traditional leaders, members of women’s and youth organizations, and other civil society representatives.

78. During the reporting period, 13 children (6 boys, 7 girls) were the victims of grave violations. Four boys were verified as having been recruited by the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces, one boy was killed by the Defence Forces, six children (1 boy, 5 girls) were maimed by explosive remnants of war, and two girls were raped by SPLM/A-IO (1) and the Defence Forces (1). Violations were verified in Jonglei (4 boys, 1 girl), Northern Bahr el-Ghazal (4 girls), Unity (1 boy), Central Equatoria (1 boy, 1 girl) and Western Equatoria (1 boy). In addition, two incidents were verified regarding the military use of schools by SPLM/A-IO forces in Western Bahr el-Ghazal (1) and by the Defence Forces in Central Equatoria (1).

79. UNMISS delivered 38 child protection awareness-raising sessions to 648 members of the government security forces (including 192 women) and 113 members of the SPLM/A-IO forces (including 2 women). In addition, 669 community members (including 291 women), 59 government officials (including 20 women) and 5 male staff members of protection partners benefited from awareness-raising activities.

80. UNMISS delivered five child protection training sessions to 227 participants (56 of them women), including 106 members of government security forces (of whom 6 were women), 10 members of opposition forces (all men), 77 government officials (including 20 women), 30 community members (all women) and 4 staff members of protection partners (all men).

81. In June and July, UNMISS supported the high-level interministerial committee in preparing its first comprehensive report on the progress and challenges related to the implementation of the action plan on children associated with armed conflict. The report was presented to the committee and the action plan has been extended until 7 February 2022.

82. Following the child protection capacity-building workshop for 38 military justice personnel held in May, the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces launched a mobile general court martial in Jonglei and Upper Nile on 3 June to commence trials for 60 perpetrators of atrocities committed against civilians, including children.

2. Conflict-related sexual violence

83. UNMISS continued to observe concerning levels of sexual violence perpetrated by the parties to the conflict, civil defence groups or other armed elements involved in localized violence. The Mission verified 23 incidents of conflict-related sexual violence involving 40 survivors, including 10 girls and 11 men. The victims, whose ages ranged from 12 to 50, were subjected to rape (16), gang rape (11), forced nudity (12) and sexual slavery (1). Seven incidents were attributed to the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces, six to civil defence groups, three to SPLM/A-IO, two to the South Sudan National Police Service, two to NAS and one to the National Security Service. Attribution for two incidents was pending. Civil defence groups were responsible for 47 per cent of all victims. In addition, five incidents of conflict-related sexual violence that had occurred prior to the reporting period, involving 12 survivors, including one girl, were documented and verified. Three incidents were attributed to civil defence groups and two to the Police Service.

84. On 19 June, the Government officially launched the action plan for the armed forces on addressing conflict-related sexual violence. The action plan had previously been endorsed by the Joint Defence Board and builds on and unifies the action plans of the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces and SPLM/A-IO on preventing and eliminating conflict-related sexual violence. The joint committee mandated to oversee its implementation, comprising representatives of the Defence Forces, SPLM/A-IO and the South Sudan Opposition Alliance, held its first meeting on 6 August, with technical support from the Mission.

85. Civilian courts in Warrap and Western Bahr el-Ghazal States convicted two South Sudan National Police Service personnel and one South Sudan People's Defence Forces personnel of conflict-related sexual violence against minors. In addition to prison terms ranging from three to nine years, perpetrators were also ordered to pay compensation to survivors, including cattle and payments of up to 75,000 South Sudanese pounds.

F. Women and peace and security

86. UNMISS facilitated the launch of the South Sudan Women’s Leadership Forum under the auspices of the Vice-President of South Sudan, Rebecca Nyandeng de Mabior, to strengthen women’s representation in politics and to create a pipeline of women at the national and subnational levels. The forum brought together a diverse group of women, including from the security sector, faith-based organizations, civil society, academia, political leaders and the private sector, to discuss shared priorities and make recommendations on how to advance the women and peace and security agenda, and peace implementation.

87. UNMISS supported the efforts of the Ministry of Gender, Children and Social Welfare of Upper Nile State, through the South Sudan Women’s Leadership Forum, to advance women’s meaningful participation in public office and decision-making, including in the ongoing peace process under the Revitalized Agreement.

88. On 1 June, UNMISS hosted a two-day dialogue in Western Bahr el-Ghazal on women’s representation in politics and state governments. Over 70 participants (42 of them women), including political party representatives, state ministers, advisers, directors general and civil society actors, discussed women’s participation in politics and the need for capacity-building.
On 22 July, UNMISS provided technical support to Omuk, a community-based women’s organization in Torit, in drafting a three-month workplan on the dissemination of Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) and the awareness-raising around the 35 per cent affirmative action quota in local languages.

VI. Mission staffing, the status of deployments and conduct and discipline

As at 16 August, the number of UNMISS civilian personnel stood at 2,654, comprising 873 international staff members (including 249 women, 29 per cent), 1,389 national staff members (of whom 205 were women, 15 per cent) and 392 United Nations Volunteers (161 of them women, 41 per cent).

The police strength stood at 1,479 (of an authorized 2,101 personnel), comprising 592 individual police officers (including 206 women, 34.7 per cent), 848 personnel in formed police units (of whom 225 women, 26.5 per cent) and 39 corrections officers (17 of them women, 43.5 per cent).

Of the authorized 17,000 troops, UNMISS troop strength stood at 14,871 military personnel, comprising 221 military liaison officers (including 47 women, 21 per cent), 418 military staff officers (of whom 78 women, 19 per cent) and 14,232 military contingent personnel (748 of them women, 5 per cent).

UNMISS reviewed the existing sexual exploitation and abuse risk registers and action plans in Yambio, Torit and Aweil. To fully implement the three-pronged strategy of the Secretary-General to address misconduct, the Mission has expanded the risk registers and actions to cover all forms of unsatisfactory conduct. Town hall meetings were conducted to brief the field office personnel on ways to create and maintain a harmonious working environment that is free of incidents of sexual harassment.

In accordance with the applicable policy, information on possible unsatisfactory conduct or misconduct was processed in a timely fashion. Some 18 allegations were recorded in the case management tracking system. No allegations of sexual exploitation and abuse were recorded during the reporting period. All identified survivors of previously reported allegations of sexual exploitation and abuse continued to receive support from the Senior Victims’ Rights Officer in South Sudan.

VII. Violations of the status-of-forces agreement, international humanitarian law and the security of United Nations personnel UNMISS and the Government made significant progress on improving overall communication and coordination, positively affecting the Mission’s operations. Following high-level meetings between representatives of the Government and senior officials of UNMISS, the Mission and the Joint Verification and Monitoring Mechanism signed guidelines for the joint coordination of movement on 2 July to facilitate the movement of the UNMISS force within South Sudan in accordance with the status-of-forces agreement. On 27 July, UNMISS and the Mechanism held a joint workshop, attended by the leadership of the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces, divisional commanders, representatives of the Mechanism, heads of UNMISS field offices and UNMISS force representatives, to develop a common understanding of the guidelines. These initiatives led to fewer incidents of access denials in July compared with previous months.

96. In addition, during the high-level meetings, the issue of UNMISS contractor trucks being detained at Mombasa, Kenya, (175 trucks) and Nimule (300 trucks) owing to slow or no clearance by the responsible agency was discussed. All 475 trucks were released by the Ministry following the meeting.

97. As at 31 August 2021, UNMISS had recorded 62 violations of the status-of-forces agreement, compared with 135 in the previous reporting period. Of the total number of violations, 46 involved movement restrictions imposed by the Government, 39 of which were the result of the failure to acknowledge information shared by the Mission or requests made for flight safety assurance.

98. UNMISS recorded three incidents of access denial by SPLM/A-IO and armed militia elements, which impeded the Mission’s ability to monitor and investigate the human rights situation in areas controlled by SPLM/A-IO.

99. In Central Equatoria, the Mine Action Service was informed by the National Mine Action Authority that the military intelligence section of the South Sudan People’s Defence Forces had requested the withdrawal of all teams engaged in demining and related activities along the routes from Juba to Lobonok, Mundri, Nimule and Yei in view of tactical operations by the Defence Forces in the area. As a result, the Mine Action Service and its partners were unable to carry out their activities for much of the reporting period.

100. On 5 August, a female national staff member of a United Nations agency was reportedly assaulted by South Sudan People’s Defence Forces and South Sudan National Police Service personnel on the Paloich road in Rumbek East County. This incident followed a meeting on 2 August between UNMISS and the Governor of Lakes, who promised cooperation in view of the significant backlash observed after the issuance of a press release condemning extrajudicial killings.

101. The whereabouts of two national staff members arrested in 2014 remain unknown. The Government has neither granted UNMISS access to them nor provided information about their condition.

102. UNMISS continued to notify the Government of the violations through notes verbales and regular engagements. Monthly matrices of the incidents prepared for the Security Council are also shared with the Government.

VIII. Performance of uniformed components

103. Eight UNMISS force contingents (three infantry units, four engineering units and one military police unit) and one sector headquarters were evaluated. One infantry unit, one engineering unit and the military police unit were assessed as above average; two infantry units and two engineering units were assessed as excellent. The evaluation of one engineering unit has yet to be finalized. In addition, the sector headquarters was assessed as above average. More generally, the proposed improvement implementation plan for different contingents included an increase in tabletop exercises related to contingency planning and lessons on standard operating procedures for the UNMISS force. For some contingents, increased training on the rules of engagement and laws of armed conflict was proposed, with certain contingents focusing on language skills.

104. From 3 to 6 August, the performance assessment and evaluation team for formed police units of UNMISS commenced inspection of two units in Juba, one in Bentiu and one in Malakal. The performance of all inspected units was found to be satisfactory.
IX. Observations and recommendations

105. I congratulate South Sudan on its tenth anniversary as an independent State. A decade ago, the international community pledged its support to South Sudan. That commitment remains equally important and urgent today as the world’s youngest nation strives to deliver peace and security to its people. As we look back on aspirations that were not realized, we should redouble our efforts going forward. I urge the President, Mr. Kiir, to enhance his efforts to consolidate peace. In this endeavour, I assure the South Sudanese people of the full support of the United Nations.

106. While I am encouraged that the permanent ceasefire largely continues to hold, I am disturbed by the internal disputes within SPLM/A-IO. I join IGAD in reiterating that the Revitalized Agreement provides, and remains, the only agreed framework for achieving peace. In this regard, I applaud the swift intervention of the IGAD Council of Ministers and express my gratitude to the Prime Minister, Mr. Hamdok, the IGAD Secretary-General, Mr. Gebekeyhu, and the IGAD Special Envoy, Mr. Wais, for their support and for attempting to bridge the gap between conflicting factions.

107. The slow pace of implementation of the Revitalized Agreement, including those measures related to the transitional security arrangements, is an obstacle to consolidating peace. The lack of overall progress in achieving agreed benchmarks has contributed to fractures within SPLM/A-IO and subsequent clashes between factions. I call upon the factions involved to resolve their differences through dialogue and to avoid actions that would be detrimental to the peace process. I also request the parties to refrain from encouraging defections and supporting defectors. South Sudan cannot risk eroding the peace gains achieved thus far.

108. I commend the recent decision of the presidency to immediately unify the command of the forces and graduate the Necessary Unified Forces. This decision, which is now behind schedule, should be fully and promptly implemented, and I confirm the continued support of the United Nations to this effort.

109. The piecemeal approach to implementing the Revitalized Agreement is compounded by the humanitarian situation, which remains dire. New displacements related to localized violence, extreme weather and livelihood pressures continue. Approximately 7.2 million people are estimated to face high levels of food insecurity, with 108,000 people facing catastrophic levels of hunger.

110. I am deeply troubled by the persistent cases of conflict-related sexual violence and other serious human rights violations, partly owing to pervasive impunity and lack of accountability and to rule of law deficits. I am similarly alarmed by the increasing danger that humanitarians are facing in South Sudan. This year alone, four humanitarian workers have been killed. The Government should take the necessary steps to ensure a safe and secure environment in order for humanitarian partners to deliver life-saving goods and services. These acts of criminality and violence must stop. The generosity of donors and the hard work of our humanitarian partners cannot be taken for granted. The United Nations stands alongside the Revitalized Transitional Government of National Unity in supporting initiatives that promote durable peace and ensuring that the perpetrators of violence are brought to justice.

111. I thank the Government for removing impediments to the freedom of movement of peacekeepers. The marked improvement in access is the result of high-level meetings between the Government and UNMISS and the subsequent signing of the guidelines for the operational coordination of movement for the Mission with the Joint Verification and Monitoring Mechanism.
There is an alarming increase in the number of threats and attacks against United Nations agencies and NGOs by young people frustrated by the lack of employment opportunities. In this regard, I welcome the establishment of the high-level committee led by the Vice-President, Mr. Machar, to address the underlying issues.

I encourage the Government to seize the occasion of the third anniversary of the Revitalized Agreement, on 18 September, to refocus its efforts towards agreeing on the critical benchmarks needed for sustaining a peaceful transitional period, culminating in democratic elections, and to accelerate its efforts to that end.

In July, I submitted to the Security Council the broad requirements for the conduct of free, fair, credible and peaceful elections following its request for a needs assessment (see S/2021/661). The electoral process envisioned by the Revitalized Agreement constitutes an important opportunity for the consolidation of stability in the country and the creation of the conditions for its development. In this regard, I commend the recent progress by the Government towards reconstituting the Transitional National Legislative Assembly, the launch of the consultative process for the Commission for Truth, Reconciliation and Healing, and the establishment of a task force to oversee and coordinate transitional justice and judicial reforms.

I encourage the Transitional National Legislative Assembly to proceed with the incorporation of the Revitalized Agreement into the transitional constitution, to finalize the security bills and to adopt the Political Parties Act. I also welcome the appointment of the first woman as Speaker of the Assembly, as well as the nomination of women to other key positions. Such progress notwithstanding, the parties should continue their efforts towards reaching the 35 per cent quota for women envisioned in the Agreement.

I also applaud the efforts of the Community of Sant’Egidio to bring the Revitalized Transitional Government of National Unity and non-signatories together in order to engage in consultations towards a ceasefire agreement. I would encourage, in particular, bringing the hold-out groups into the framework of the Ceasefire Transitional Security Arrangements Monitoring and Verification Mechanism. I urge all parties to engage in this process in good faith.

Finally, I convey my appreciation to the troop- and police-contributing countries and commend the efforts made by the IGAD Heads of State and Government and Council of Ministers, the African Union Commission and the Community of Sant’Egidio. I thank my Special Representative, Nicholas Haysom, in particular for adopting the three-year strategic vision for UNMISS pursuant to Security Council resolution 2567 (2021). I also thank the uniformed and civilian personnel of UNMISS and the United Nations country team, who have continued to work towards peace and to improve lives even in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic.
