Implementation of Security Council resolutions 2139 (2014) and 2165 (2014)

Report of the Secretary-General

I. Introduction

1. This sixth report is submitted pursuant to paragraph 17 of Security Council resolution 2139 (2014) and paragraph 10 of Security Council resolution 2165 (2014), in which the Council requested the Secretary-General to report, every 30 days, on the implementation of the resolutions by all parties to the conflict in the Syrian Arab Republic.

2. The report covers the period from 22 July to 18 August 2014. The information contained in the report is based on the data available to the United Nations actors on the ground and reports from open sources and sources of the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic.

II. Major developments

A. Political/military

3. Conflict and high levels of violence continued across the Syrian Arab Republic during the reporting period, particularly in the governorates of Aleppo, Hama, Homs, Deir ez-Zor, Rif Dimashq, Damascus, Hasakeh, Idlib, Dar`a and Raqqa. Indiscriminate aerial bombings by Government forces and indiscriminate shelling and attacks by armed opposition, extremist and designated terrorist groups<sup>1</sup> continued to result in death, injury and displacement. According to data collected by human rights organizations from various sources, July 2014 was the deadliest month in the Syrian Arab Republic since the start of the conflict in March 2011, with over 1,000 civilian deaths and injuries.

4. Air strikes and indiscriminate barrel bomb attacks by Government forces continued on opposition-held areas, resulting in the deaths of hundreds of civilians. In its report released on 30 July, "Barrage of Barrel Bombs", Human Rights Watch satellite imagery analysis shows over 650 new major impact strikes, consistent with barrel bomb impacts, in Aleppo residential neighbourhoods held by armed opposition groups, between 22 February and 14 July 2014. The heaviest concentration of bombs was in the residential districts of Masaken, Hanano, Bostan Pasha, Sheikh Kheder, Trab al-Hellok, Aynat Tal, Rasafeh and Sheikh Said, where civilians who do not have the means to leave, still reside. Reports were also received that over 121 barrel bombs were dropped between 22 July and 13 August, resulting in the deaths of 185 civilians. Dar`a and Hama governorates have been also severely affected by barrel bombs. In Dar`a, for example, over 30 barrel bombs were reportedly dropped on Da`el city between 22 and 31 July, killing 10 civilians, including 5 children, while in Hama, barrel bombs hit multiple areas in northern and western rural areas, including one incident in Aqareb village on 4 August, which resulted in at least five civilians killed.

<sup>1</sup> On 30 May 2013, Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) and the Nusra Front were designated as terrorist groups by the Security Council under resolution 1267 (1999). These two groups operate in the Syrian Arab Republic.

5. Government-controlled cities and areas continued to be subject to indiscriminate mortar attacks, shelling and vehicle-borne improvised explosive devices by armed opposition groups and extremist groups, notably in Aleppo, Homs and Damascus governorates. In Aleppo city, a mortar attack in a Government-held area on 25 July killed 15 civilians, including 3 women and 6 children. In Homs, a suicide vehicle-borne improvised explosive device was detonated on 27 July in the Government-controlled predominantly Alawite neighbourhood of Al Arman, killing 11 civilians. In Damascus, around 225 mortars and missiles targeted the capital between 3 and 7 August, killing more than 17 people and injuring at least 100 people, including children.

6. Fighting and conflict continue to displace people, particularly in areas of Hama, Hasakeh and Deir ez-Zor governorates. In Hama, fighting between Government forces and armed opposition groups in southern and western rural areas led to approximately 22,500 people fleeing to Hama city. In Hasakeh, around 10,000 people were displaced from the Hasakeh city to Qamishli city in anticipation of further ISIL offensives. Meanwhile, in Deir ez-Zor, nearly 100,000 people, mostly women, children and elderly, fled to Baqaan, Hujayn, Al Bahr and Al Shafa from the advances of ISIL.

7. All parties to the conflict continued to target vital services resulting in interruptions to the supply of safe drinking water and electricity. In Aleppo city, damage caused to the main water pumping station, Suleiman al-Halabi, by armed opposition groups on 2 June continues to result in water shortages for more than 700,000 people. While repairs to the pumping station in Aleppo have continued since 19 July, the water station pumping capacity remains low due to electricity cuts and lack of fuel for generators. Reports were received last week that the Islamic Front cut the water supply multiple times from the main Aleppo pumping station to the Tishreen collective tank, supplying an internally displaced person (IDP) area. Reduced availability of vital services, such as water and electricity, also continued to be reported in various contested areas in Dar`a, Idlib, Hama, Deir ez-Zor and Rif Dimashq governorates, also as a result of insufficient availability of fuel.

8. ISIL continues to increase its influence in the Syrian Arab Republic, predominantly along the main supply lines in rural central Homs, Hama, Rif Dimashq, southern Hasakeh and western Aleppo. It also continues to fight for the control of border crossings and natural resources. During the reporting period, it made advances in Raqqa, Hasakeh, and Aleppo governorates following clashes with Government forces. In Raqqa, it took over two of the three remaining government-controlled military bases, with reports that its forces had killed at least 85 Syrian soldiers, beheading some. In Hasakeh, ISIL took over a large Government military base and established presence in the Gweiran neighbourhood of Hasakeh city following an offensive on Government and Kurdish-controlled areas near Tal Tamr and Yaroubiyeh, to link and complement its offensive on Kurdish areas in Iraq. In Aleppo governorate, on 29 and 30 July, heavy fighting broke out west of Ain al-Arab (Kobani), between ISIL and Kurdish elements. Elsewhere, ISIL seized control of Al Ta'aneh and Al Mukbileh towns around the Sheikh Najjar industrial area. Since 13 August, ISIL has gained control of strategic villages north-east of Aleppo towards Mare' and Azaz districts in an attempt to take control of the Bab al-Salam crossing point on the Syrian-Turkish border.

9. Recent attacks by ISIL on the Sinjar district of Ninewa governorate in Iraq displaced approximately 55,000 Yazidi people to Hasakeh governorate between 2 and 11 August. The majority of those who entered the Syrian Arab Republic have since returned to Iraq, but around 15,000 people are living in the Nawrouz IDP camp, while hundreds more are in nearby villages and towns. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and partners in Qamishli are rapidly scaling up their response, including airlifting additional relief materials to Hasakeh governorate. They are also transporting the most vulnerable to the Nawrouz camp or to/from various crossing points with Iraq.

10. In Idlib governorate, the Nusra Front took full control of the strip of the Turkish-Syrian border from the edge of Ladhikiyah to Bab al-Hawa, including the border crossing of Darkosh/Sanli, following an offensive on the Free Syrian Army in western Idlib. The Nusra Front is now in control of the smuggling trade on the border, a key source of income for armed opposition groups.

11. On 14 August, the Security Council unanimously adopted resolution 2170 \(2014\), which condemns the recruitment by ISIL, the Nusra Front and all other entities associated with Al-Qaida of foreign terrorist fighters; demands that all foreign terrorist fighters associated with ISIL and other terrorist groups withdraw immediately; and expresses its readiness to consider listing those recruiting for or participating in the activities of ISIL, the Nusra Front and entities associated with Al-Qaida under the Al-Qaida sanctions regime, including through financing or facilitating, for ISIL or the Nusra Front, of travel of foreign terrorist fighters.

12. While the United Nations does not have the means to independently verify their number and origins, non-Syrian fighters increasingly are participating in the fighting in the Syrian Arab Republic, supporting all sides of the conflict, including designated terrorist groups. During the reporting period, Australia issued arrest warrants for two citizens accused of fighting for ISIL. On 13 August, France stated that nearly 900 French citizens have gone to Middle East battlegrounds either in the Syrian Arab Republic or in Iraq, and that some had joined ISIL. Meanwhile, the ISIL communication and recruitment campaigns continue to promote the "Islamic Caliphate" through professionally made audio and visual material in different languages. The territory encompassing the ISIL-declared Islamic Caliphate is now estimated to have a population of up to 9 million people.

13. The Syrian conflict spilled over into Lebanon on 2 August with heavy clashes in the border town of Aarsal between Lebanese authorities and extremist groups reportedly from Qalamoun, including elements from the Nusra Front and ISIL. On 7 August, the Lebanese Army announced that the Lebanese Armed Forces had regained control of the town which was declared free of foreign fighters. Approximately 1,086 Syrians returned from Aarsal to the Syrian Arab Republic as a result.

B. Human rights

14. Grave violations of child rights continued to occur during the reporting period, including the killing and maiming of children, child recruitment and the arbitrary detention and abduction of children. Around 130 of the 153 students abducted by ISIL on 29 May while travelling to Ain al-Arab, Aleppo, continue to be held by the group. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) received reports on 22 July that two of the students escaped; the students reported witnessing beatings and electric shock of other students as a means to obtain information about political activists in Ain al-Arab (Kobani) and Aleppo. Some of the children from the group are also reportedly detained with adults in substandard conditions.

15. Armed opposition groups in the Syrian Arab Republic continue to recruit children, with over 120 cases of the recruitment and use of children documented in 2014, including girls and some as young as 8. Of these, more than half of the cases have been attributed to the Free Syrian Army. While reports prior to 2014 indicated that children associated with armed groups were predominantly engaged in support functions, there has been a confirmed trend of increased use of children in combat roles this year. On 31 July, the National Coalition of Syrian Revolution and Opposition Forces (Syrian Coalition) sent a letter to the Security Council, attaching a communiqué adopted jointly by the Syrian Coalition and the Supreme Military Council of the Free Syrian Army to end and prevent the recruitment and use of children. They pledged, inter alia, to ensure that command orders are issued to Free Syrian Army units to prohibit the recruitment of children and end the military use of schools and hospitals for military purposes.

16. Violations against women also continued during the reporting period. On 17 July, a woman was reportedly stoned to death by approximately 30 members of ISIL, after being found guilty of adultery by an ISIL sharia court in the city of Al Tabqa, in Raqqqa governorate. During the last week of July, ISIL distributed leaflets listing restrictions on women's dress codes in Deir ez-Zor and Raqqqa, noting that violations would entail severe punishment. Meanwhile, reports were also received that other armed opposition groups are imitating ISIL in their treatment of civilians in areas under their control. For example, in Douma, Rif Dimashq, there have been reports of stoning for adultery and homosexuality by armed opposition groups.

17. On 25 July, ISIL reportedly captured and executed over 40 Government soldiers in Raqqqa. Internet-based footage depicted gruesome images of dead army soldiers, some of whom appeared to have been decapitated, their heads placed on sticks or metal poles in the centre of Raqqqa city. On 26 July, a media activist was executed and his body tied to a pole on public display by the Nusra Front and ISIL. The victim was accused by ISIL and the Nusra Front of being part of Al-Kafan al-Abyad, a Kurdish militant group based in Abu Kamal. In addition, ISIL continues to hold approximately 250 civilians, including approximately 160 migrant workers, who were abducted some six months ago while returning to Ain al-Arab (Kobani) from Iraq. In Deir ez-Zor, more than 700 members of the Arab Al-Sheitaat tribe, whom ISIL accused of apostasy, have reportedly been killed since early August by militants of ISIL.

18. On the status of prisoners and detainees from the Aleppo Central Prison, OHCHR received new information that most detainees were transferred to Al-Wahda school in Aleppo and to the Adra Central Prison in Rif Dimashq. Their conditions of detention are believed to be dire, including, reports of tuberculosis cases and of children detained with adults at Al-Wahda school. In response to a note verbale from OHCHR dated 25 June, the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic replied that judicial authorities have resumed trials following the transfer of inmates from the prison to the new facilities and that a judicial committee has been reviewing their status to implement amnesty decrees. The Government also reported the release of 363 prisoners from the Aleppo Central Prison on 28 July, and that bodies still buried inside the Aleppo Central Prison grounds would be returned to the families when the area is secure. OHCHR recently concluded that violations of international human rights and humanitarian law, some of which may amount to war crimes, were committed by Syrian Government forces, as well as by armed opposition groups on the former inmates of the Aleppo Central Prison.<sup>2</sup>

19. Regarding the status of the 100 male evacuees from the Old City of Homs in February who were transferred from Al-Andalus school, OHCHR received reports that approximately 15 defectors and deserters were transferred back to their military units; 35 draft evaders were processed for military service; and 11 civilians and 3 defectors or deserters were released. The rest remain imprisoned, including over 45 detainees, who are in Sidnaya Central Prison awaiting prosecution in anti-terrorism courts. On 30 July, UNHCR visited the Al-Andalus facility and observed 29 persons lacking documentation and 3 evacuated families who had chosen to stay in Al-Andalus in the absence of a better option. The facility is again being used as a collective shelter.

20. The Government stated that 828 individuals were pardoned between 22 and 28 July, after surrendering their weapons and pledging not to participate in the hostilities. The Government did not specify whether any of the pardoned individuals had been in their custody.

21. Lack of accountability continues to lead to impunity for perpetrators of violations of international human rights and humanitarian law in the Syrian Arab Republic. Members of the Independent International Commission of Inquiry on the Syrian Arab Republic, OHCHR and United Nations human rights monitors continue to be denied access to the Syrian Arab Republic.

C. Humanitarian access

22. Approximately 10.8 million people continue to be in need of urgent humanitarian assistance within the Syrian Arab Republic, including more than 6.4 million people who are internally displaced. Around 4.7 million people reside in areas categorized as hard-to-reach, including at least 241,000 people who remain besieged by either Government or opposition forces.

23. For the first time in these monthly reports to the Security Council I can report some improvement in access across borders and across lines. Access across borders following the adoption of resolution 2165 \(2014\) has resulted in broader reach to areas in Aleppo, Dar`a, Rif Dimashq, Idlib and Ladhīqiyah governorates. There have also been new openings in access across conflict lines in Aleppo (eastern rural), Dar`a (Dar`a city opposition-held neighbourhoods) and Rif Dimashq governorates. Many of these locations had not received assistance since the onset of the conflict. Of particular note is that medical supplies, including surgical items, reached a number of opposition-held areas this month.

24. Overall, assistance reached 48 (approximately 17 per cent) of the 287 locations identified as besieged or hard-to-reach. Food assistance by the World Food Programme (WFP) and the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) reached 469,510 people in 23 hard-to-reach areas compared to 95,838 people in 14 hard-to-reach locations during the previous reporting period. UNHCR, UNRWA and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) delivered non-food items to 81,151 people in 23 hard-to-reach areas compared to 62,090 people in 29 hard-to-reach locations during the previous reporting period.

25. Following the adoption of resolution 2165 \(2014\) on 14 July, the United Nations established the monitoring mechanism foreseen in paragraph 3 of the resolution. The mechanism became operational on 23 July in Turkey and on 2 August in Jordan, following the deployment and training of advanced teams of United Nations monitors. Deployment of monitoring teams to Iraq remains pending owing to ongoing fighting and insecurity in the north-western part of the country.

26. During the reporting period, the United Nations and its partners sent five shipments — four from Turkey and one from Jordan — to the Syrian Arab Republic under the terms of resolution 2165 \(2014\), using two border crossings, Bab al-Salam and Ramtha. This included food assistance for over 67,000 people; non-food items for almost 70,000 people; water and sanitation supplies for around 75,000 people; and medical supplies for almost 110,000 people, including surgical supplies for 200 people, as well as other items to people in Aleppo, Idlib, Ladhīqiyah and Dar`a governorates. United Nations teams monitored the loading of the shipments and accompanied the loaded vehicles to the border crossing. These shipments were possible because of the full cooperation of the Governments of Turkey and Jordan.

27. In line with Security Council resolution 2165 \(2014\), the United Nations notified the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic in advance of each shipment, including details about content, destination district and number of beneficiaries. In addition, for each shipment, the United Nations monitoring mechanism sent a notification to the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic confirming the humanitarian nature of the shipment in accordance with resolution 2165 \(2014\).

28. Owing to the deteriorating humanitarian situation in Hasakeh governorate and in view of the situation in neighbouring Iraq, relief items continue to be urgently needed through the Nusaybin/Qamishli border crossing, which is the most direct route to the governorate. UNHCR and WFP are organizing airlifts from Damascus into Hasakeh governorate to transport food and non-food items for 50,000 people in different parts of the governorate, and some of these supplies will be reserved for the response to the Iraq crisis. The World Health Organization (WHO) was also able to deliver intravenous fluids for the treatment of up to 3,400 people.

29. Designated terrorist groups continued to severely constrain access to the eastern governorates of the Syrian Arab Republic. As a result, almost 390,000 people could not be reached with planned food assistance in Raqqa, Deir ez-Zor and Hasakeh during the reporting period. On 6 August, an 18-truck convoy of WFP food en route from Deir ez-Zor to Raqqa came under attack from an unknown group. Two truck drivers were killed and two were injured, and the contents of four trucks were damaged or destroyed. The remaining 14 trucks, carrying assistance for 59,445 people, proceeded to Raqqa. The assistance is now being distributed. Armed opposition groups, including the Islamic Front and ISIL, continued to block humanitarian access to each other's areas of control. In Aleppo and northern Hasakeh, ISIL continued to block humanitarian access, in particular to Kurdish areas and to villages in Deir ez-Zor that oppose its rule.

30. Despite the difficult operating environment, United Nations agencies and partners continued their efforts to deliver assistance to those in need. In July, WFP dispatched food for 3.66 million people across 13 Syrian governorates, or 86 per cent of the planned target of 4.25 million, representing a 7 per cent increase from the 3.42 million (81 per cent of the target) reached in June. UNICEF deliveries of chlorine benefitted 16.5 million people with clean water. WHO distributed medicines and supplies for approximately 580,000 medical treatments. Between 17 July and 4 August, UNHCR dispatched relief items benefitting more than 181,600 people in nine governorates.

Besieged areas

31. Approximately 241,000 people remain besieged, 196,000 in areas besieged by Government forces in Madamiyet Elsham, eastern Ghouta, Darayya and Yarmouk, and 45,000 in areas besieged by opposition forces in Nubul and Zahra.

32. During the reporting period, assistance, including medical assistance, reached two besieged communities: Yarmouk and Madamiyet Elsham. Food was distributed to 6,060 people (2.5 per cent of people in besieged areas) and non-food items to 4,520 people (1.8 per cent); medicines were distributed to 25,200 (10.5 per cent).

33. Eastern Ghouta: 150,000 people remain besieged in eastern Ghouta. A convoy is planned for 18 to 21 August, targeting 25,000 people. Eastern Ghouta (Douma) was last reached with humanitarian assistance on 24 May 2014.

34. Madamiyet Elsham: 24,000 people, including approximately 9,000 children, face a shortage of basic needs and movement constraints. On 28 July, WHO and the Syrian Arab Red Crescent (SARC) delivered 5 metric tons of medical assistance, sufficient for two months, to the Madamiyet health centre to support 24,000 people in need, including antibiotics, chronic disease medicines and multivitamins for children. Although Madamiyet was last reached during the period 14 to 21 July, this was the first time medical supplies, with the exception of vaccines, reached the town since October 2012.

35. Darayya: Approximately 4,000 people remain besieged in Darayya, Rif Dimashq, with no access to assistance during the reporting period. Darayya was last assisted in October 2012.

36. Yarmouk: 18,000 people remain besieged in Yarmouk. UNRWA accessed Yarmouk from 22 July to 9 August, reaching 6,060 people with food parcels, 4,520 people with non-food items and 1,200 people with health supplies or medicine. For the first time since December 2012, the Syrian authorities authorized the distribution of medical supplies, including antibiotics and medicines for non-communicable diseases. Standard infant and early childhood vaccines are also currently permitted. UNRWA has not reached Yarmouk since 9 August because of clashes in the camp.

37. Nubul and Zahra: 45,000 people remain besieged by opposition forces in Nubul and Zahra. Nubul and Zahra were hit during the reporting period with an improvised rocket fitted with a gas canister, known as a “hell canon”, and other rockets causing an unspecified number of casualties. No humanitarian assistance has reached the two villages since 8 May.

Free passage of medical supplies, personnel and equipment

38. There has been some improvement in delivery of medical items to opposition-held areas following the adoption of resolution 2165 \(2014\), including to the besieged areas of Madamiyet ElSham and Yarmouk and to eastern Aleppo city.

39. WHO delivered medicines and medical equipment to hard-to-reach areas in Raqqa, Aleppo, Rif Dimashq and Hasakeh governorates. WHO and partners distributed medicines and supplies for approximately 580,000 medical treatments,<sup>3</sup> including intravenous fluids to treat 3,333 people in Raqqa city; 10 metric tons of surgical supplies to hospitals in eastern Aleppo city and medicines for chronic disease for 22,300 people; medicines to 24,000 people for two months in Madamiyet ElSham; and intravenous fluids treatments in Hasakeh for 3,400 people.

40. Following the 2013 outbreak of polio in the Syrian Arab Republic, seven national immunization campaigns were conducted from December 2013 to June 2014, in cooperation with the Ministry of Health, UNICEF, WHO and SARC. The June polio vaccination round reached 2.7 million children in all 14 governorates with four additional campaigns planned before the end of the year.

41. Final figures from the 15-26 June measles campaign show that 766,305 children were reached. There are 389 confirmed cases of measles to date. Meanwhile, the incidence of acute diarrhoea continues to increase in the Syrian Arab Republic, with 5,535 cases reported from 13 to 19 July 2014. The highest number of cases was reported in Deir ez-Zor (1,522), Damascus (798), Rif Dimashq (528), Ladhqiyyah (496) and Aleppo (465).

42. Attacks on medical facilities and personnel continued over the reporting period. During July, Physicians for Human Rights documented 11 attacks on 9 separate medical facilities. Seven were in Aleppo governorate, two in Rif Dimashq, one in Deir ez-Zor and one in Idlib. Seven were attacks by barrel bombs (all in Aleppo), two by rockets, one by mortar fire and one by car bomb. Six of the 11 medical facilities affected had previously been attacked. The deaths of 13 medical personnel were also documented, of which 6 were reportedly targeted killings. Eleven were killed by Government forces and two were killed by non-State armed groups. Physicians for Human Rights report that nine personnel died from shelling or bombing, two from torture and two were shot.

Administrative procedures

43. The implementation of the truck-sealing procedures intended to facilitate and speed up passage at checkpoints continued to slow the delivery of humanitarian assistance. In particular, delays were noted in the approval of weekly loading plans. The movement of supplies to hard-to-reach areas continued to be negotiated on a case-by-case basis through meetings of the Joint Committee, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Social Affairs and security personnel centrally. This measure also continued to be applicable for authorization for hard-to-reach areas from United Nations hubs at the governorate level, which previously did not require authorization at the central/national levels. In Aleppo, Hama, Homs and Idlib, the governors continued to implement the new directive and convoys were no longer authorized at the hub level. As a result, there have been no convoys to hard-to-reach areas in these governorates since June. WHO continued to receive some exemptions with respect to medicines, vaccines and some medical equipment.

44. As at 11 August, 79 visas or visa renewal requests remained pending: 27 within the 15 working day limit and 52 exceeding the 15 working day limit. During the reporting period, the number of pending visas for international non-governmental organizations (NGOs) remained the same with 17 requests still pending.

45. During the reporting period, there was no change in the number of national NGOs authorized to partner with United Nations agencies as two inactive NGOs were removed from the list of authorized NGOs and two new NGOs were added in Damascus and Homs governorates. There are 85 national NGOs operating through 141 branches throughout the Syrian Arab Republic.

46. International NGOs continue to be unable to conduct independent (or joint) needs assessments; most cannot open sub-offices; and they are not authorized to partner with national NGOs or participate in inter-agency cross-line convoys or United Nations field missions.

Safety and security of staff and premises

47. Humanitarian assistance was delivered in the Syrian Arab Republic at great personal risk to staff in view of the intensification of the conflict, shifting front lines, bombings and the growth of designated terrorist groups.

48. On 26 July, two car bombs exploded in Atmeh and Azaz, in Aleppo, killing approximately 20 people, including one Médecins sans frontières staff member, and injuring 80.

49. On 22 July, the refugee reception area of the UNHCR Damascus office was hit by shrapnel as a result of nearby fighting. In Aleppo, an UNRWA health centre in the Neirab camp was damaged when a helicopter crashed after being struck by a surface-to-air missile. Approximately 12 Palestine refugees were killed and dozens were injured. The UNRWA distribution area in Yarmouk was affected by regular clashes throughout the reporting period, with gunfire striking the staging and distribution areas on several occasions.

50. Twenty-eight United Nations national staff members continue to be detained or missing (27 from UNRWA are detained or presumed missing and 1 from the United Nations Development Programme is detained). One SARC volunteer was killed in Raqqa on 26 July. The total number of humanitarian workers killed since March 2011 is 61. This includes 14 United Nations staff members, 38 SARC staff members and volunteers, 7 Palestine Red Crescent Society volunteers and staff members, and two international NGO staff members. Also, on 6 August, two truck drivers were killed when a WFP convoy came under attack en route from Deir ez-Zor to Raqqa.

Observations

51. Special Envoy de Mistura and Deputy Special Envoy Ramzy have a difficult task ahead of them. I have asked them to look for new openings to launch a political process and to fully involve countries in the region. The work of the Special Envoy will contribute to the implementation of the six points I presented on 20 June at the Asia Society that I believe could help address the situation in the Syrian Arab Republic in a principled and integrated fashion.

52. The prolongation of the conflict in the Syrian Arab Republic has created fertile ground for radical armed groups, including those affiliated with Al-Qaida. Recent events in Iraq and the latest fighting in Aarsal, Lebanon, vividly demonstrate the devastating impact of the Syrian conflict on the neighbouring countries and beyond. Countries in the region should find ways to build bridges that promote calm and reconciliation. Once again, I appeal to the Governments of the region and to all those with influence to stop the flow of arms, fighters and resources to all parties to the conflict and to prevent terrorist groups from acquiring financial resources and weapons.

53. Despite the adoption of presidential statement 2013/15, resolutions 2139 \(2014\) and 2165 \(2014\), the protection situation has worsened. Reportedly, over 1,000 civilian deaths have occurred in August, the deadliest since the start of the war. Civilians live in appalling conditions. The conflict continues to be characterized by horrendous violations of international humanitarian law and human rights abuses, with a total disregard for humanity. Indiscriminate barrel bomb attacks by Government forces increased significantly and have destroyed entire neighbourhoods. Armed opposition and extremist groups continued indiscriminate attacks with mortars, shelling and car bombs. I remain deeply concerned about continued targeting of infrastructure for vital services for civilians, also a flagrant violation of international humanitarian law. I remind all parties to the conflict that the deliberate targeting of civilians is a war crime. There can be no impunity in this conflict.

54. The advance of ISIL into central Syrian Arab Republic and reported violations, including extrajudicial killings of civilians and beheadings of those captured, is of grave concern. The targeted killing of civilians and those who are hors de combat and are no longer engaged in hostilities is a violation of international humanitarian law. I am appalled by reported abuses against and restrictions imposed upon women in particular, by ISIL and other extremist groups. I condemn in the strongest possible terms the persecution of individuals who refuse the extremist ideology of ISIL and associated armed groups.

55. All parties to the conflict continue to deny access to humanitarian assistance in an unjustifiable manner. Hundreds of thousands of people live under siege. The United Nations has established the monitoring mechanism to ensure the additional cross-border operations authorized under resolution 2165 \(2014\) are transparent. I note the new access openings through both cross-line and cross-border efforts this month following the passage of resolution 2165 \(2014\) and hope to report increased numbers of people assisted within the framework of resolutions 2139 \(2014\) and 2165 \(2014\). Access to those in most hard-to-reach areas — approximately 4.7 million people — must be regular, sustainable and unhindered. On the basis of recent positive developments in access, it is clear that where there is political will, there is a way to improve the situation. We must all redouble our efforts until all of the people in need in the Syrian Arab Republic are reached with the humanitarian assistance they need. But this is not a substitute for a political solution. A step change in access is still required that will make a meaningful difference in the lives of those who suffer in the Syrian Arab Republic.

56. I welcome the unanimous adoption of Security Council resolution 2170 \(2014\) on 15 August. This important display of consensus by the Council demonstrates the resolve with which the entire world has mobilized to address the rising threat of terrorism to the Syrian Arab Republic, Iraq and beyond. I call upon Member States to cooperate fully in order to ensure its implementation. At the same time, I also remind all concerned that we must not reduce the Syrian conflict to a problem of terrorism and foreign fighters. The best way to stop the spread of this new terror is by resolving the Syrian conflict politically. We must never lose sight of this.

Removal of medicines and medical supplies from convoys

- During the reporting period no medicines or medical supplies were reported removed from WHO shipments.
- There has been some improvement in delivery of medical items to opposition-held areas following the adoption of resolution 2165 \(2014\), including to the besieged areas of Madamyiet ElSham and Yarmouk and to eastern Aleppo city.

<sup>b</sup> The Government of the Syrian Arab Republic refers to “hot spots”. For the purpose of this report, these are referred to as hard-to-reach areas until clarified because of the difficulty in reaching these locations.

delivery of assistance within their respective governorates, including across lines of conflict. Delivery of assistance to cross-line locations continues to be hampered as a result of the directive.

- On 7 July, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs communicated a timeframe for submitting the weekly loading plans in accordance with the truck-sealing procedures rolled out for the movement of trucks for regular programmes: loading plans are to be submitted by United Nations agencies each Monday during working hours. Regular meetings take place between the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Humanitarian Coordinator on an almost daily basis.
- The opposition is still unable to designate empowered interlocutors. The fragmented nature of the opposition makes it difficult to clearly identify an interlocutor for armed opposition groups. Ad hoc local engagement is ongoing to negotiate access. Interlocutors vary depending on the localities where access is being negotiated.

Visas

- The revised visa policy established by the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic on 4 March continued to be implemented. As at 11 August, a total of 79 United Nations visas or renewal requests remained pending, 27 within the 15-working-day limit and 52 exceeding the 15-working-day limit.
